

The Freeman Will Open Northern Dutchess Branch

The Kingston Daily Freeman, ever growing in its service to its readers, will take a giant step forward next Monday when it opens its second bureau office within the year.

The new facility, whose function it will be to give complete coverage to Northern Dutchess county will be located at 38 East Market Street, Rhinebeck.

Earlier this year the Freeman opened an office in New Paltz to accommodate the readers of the fast-growing Southern Ulster County area.

The full time news office at Rhinebeck will serve all the towns and villages of Northern Dutchess including Red Hook, Milan, Staatsburg, Barrytown, Rock City, Rhinecliff and all points in between.

Opening a second new office represents a shift in emphasis for the 97-year-old newspaper.

With its readership growing in Northern Dutchess county and that county's projected growth pattern, the Freeman is interested in increasing its coverage of that area in order to afford its readers better service.

Attention will be given to village, town and county governments, school board meetings and politics. Feature stories concerning the area, now published on a regular basis, will be increased with emphasis on area college activity, historical pursuits and local personalities.

Further details concerning staffing, office hours and the Freeman telephone number in Rhinebeck will be disclosed at the time of the Monday morning opening.

Area residents are invited to stop in at the new office, inform the Freeman concerning newsworthy events and leave news concerning the area.

With the addition of the New Paltz and the Rhinebeck bureaus, The Freeman becomes, more than ever before, an area newspaper, presenting its readers with greater in-depth reporting of areas outside the City of Kingston.

Big Arms Cache Seized; 3 Jet Fighters Downed

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen leapfrogging along the Cambodian border north of Saigon by helicopter uncovered a major Viet Cong supply base Tuesday and without firing a shot seized the second largest munitions stockpile captured in the war, military spokesmen reported today.

The U.S. Command also announced that three more million-dollar jet fighters were shot down in South Vietnam Monday and Tuesday. Two of the pilots were rescued; the third was killed.

A spokesman said the air cavalrymen pulled 30 tons of rockets, mortars, recoilless rifle shells and explosives from a complex of 30 bunkers 60 miles north-northwest of Saigon and only seven miles from the Cambodian border.

Previously, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops have captured more than 600 tons of enemy weapons, ammunition and food up and down the country in the last three weeks, enough to feed 27,000 troops for three weeks and to equip 1,000 Viet Cong soldiers fully. The capture of supplies and munitions north-west of Saigon is believed to have been a major factor in the failure of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to mount a winter offensive against the South Vietnamese capital.

The spokesman said there were no enemy troops guarding the stockpile. He said there could be several reasons for this—that the Viet Cong hadn't distributed it quickly enough, that they took a chance that it might never be found, or that they fled when they realized they were outnumbered.

The loss of the three Air Force F100 supersonic fighters raised to 333 the number of American planes downed in combat in the South.

One plane was hit on a strike mission Tuesday near Saigon and crashed while making a landing approach outside Bien Hoa air base, 15 miles north of the capital. The pilot did not eject.

Meanwhile, U.S. forces tried to cordon off an enemy village 65 miles south of Da Nang, but failed to trap an enemy force there. Fifteen miles to the east, the drive to gain control of the Batangan Peninsula was in its 10th day and meeting little resistance.

South Vietnam's premier has little confidence in success of Paris talks opening Saturday. Story Page 44.

The cordon operation in the populous coastal lowlands was never completed in time to prevent 150 enemy soldiers from slipping out of the village, which had been abandoned by its population.

About 400 men of the U.S. 14th Light Infantry Brigade partially encircled the village Monday morning after a 30-man patrol came under sniper fire in the area.

The fighting intensified through the day but contact broke off when night fell. By then the Americans had a partial cordon around three sides of the village. Officers said armored personnel carriers tried to block the gap, but the bulk of the enemy force apparently slipped away in the darkness. American infantrymen killed six Viet Cong in scattered fighting Tuesday, raising the number of enemy reported killed in the operation so far to 81. American casualties have been light, the U.S. Command said.

Military spokesmen at Da Nang said that 119 members of the Viet Cong political underground and another 72 suspected sympathizers have been weeded from among the 6,335 civilians living on the peninsula. The operation is aimed at destroying the Viet Cong shadow government which has long ruled the peninsula and restoring the area to the control of the South Vietnamese government.

Bucher Testifies How Ship Was Captured

By JACK V. FOX

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher of the Pueblo thought it was "senseless" to try to man two machine guns when surrounded by four Communist torpedo boats, two warships with cannons and two MIG jets circling overhead.

There was no help in sight or to be expected although he had flashed a radio alarm that should have gone to the top military command and to the White House.

Today he was telling the five admiral court just how his ship was captured on Jan. 23, 1968. Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, at the time commander of U.S. naval forces, Japan, is expected to testify after Bucher and be asked why there was no aerial or other responses for a period of three or four hours.

His story carried him Tuesday up to the time he was trying to steam away in a "dignified manner" only to have the Communist submarine chaser open up a salvo of shells which wounded him and two other men on the flying bridge.

Bucher was eating lunch below deck about noon when a North Korean sub chaser approached the Pueblo 16 miles off the Port of Wonsan. It was the forerunner of a task force that was to grow to two subschasers, four torpedo boats and two MIG fighter planes.

On demand from the subchaser, Bucher identified his vessel as American. Three torpedo boats quickly joined the subchaser, and Bucher was told to heave to. He replied by flag signals that he was in international waters.

The Pueblo skipper still thought it was a routine case of Communist harassment. But at 12:52 p.m. he notified his superiors in Japan what was going on, and gave the message a priority of "critical." That made it eligible for White House attention.

Bucher said he discussed scuttling the vessel with his engineers, but was advised it could not be done quickly. The temperature was almost freezing, and Bucher decided it would mean death in a matter of minutes for any of his crewmen who jumped into the water.

As his Tuesday testimony ended, Bucher stated under questioning that the Pueblo's rubber life rafts could have accommodated 90 men. The court of inquiry indicates "a session ended before he could be asked his views on using them."

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported that Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., says that if testimony is upheld charging the USS Pueblo was inadequately equipped for defense and destruction of secret equipment, "then someone high up in the line of command has been guilty of a very grave dereliction of duty."

Russell, chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, said that testimony by the Pueblo's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher at a Navy court of inquiry indicates "a tragic mixture of errors" in outfitting the ship.

"I do not want to prejudge this testimony," Russell said in an interview. "This is the statement of one man and perhaps the Navy has some satisfactory reply to it."

3rd Czechoslovak Youth Tries Suicide by Burning

PRAGUE (UPI)—Prague Radio today said a third Czechoslovak youth has set himself afire. The self-immolation of student Jan Palach last week triggered revived demands for liberal reforms and brought denunciation from Moscow.

The broadcast said a 23-year-old youth attempted to commit suicide by setting himself on fire in the city of Brno early today.

Followed Pattern

Prague Radio said the youth committed the act in the city's Freedom Square, following a pattern of two previous such acts.

Palach, 21, set himself afire Thursday in Prague's Wenceslas Square, the rally point of anti-Soviet occupation demonstration. He died three days after the act that has revived a nationwide campaign for the Communist Party and government reforms stifled by the Soviet bloc invasion in August.

The latest burning came in the same square where thousands of Czechoslovaks two days ago marched in support for the reform aims for which Palach burned himself to death.

As the youth burned, the Czech trade union movement was flexing its 4 million-member political muscle on the side of the reform drive.

Leaders at a union congress asserted the right to strike for workingmen's political goals in "extreme cases." But Premier Oldrich Cernik cautioned them against challenging the power and authority of the Communist party.

Some party leaders have been quoted as saying privately they feel the union programs of independence are raising the possibility of a new political party being created.

Cernik also warned that continued unrest over Palach's fiery death could be used against the government by Stalinist hardliners and maintained press freedom was greater than prior to the beginning of the reform movement one year ago, despite the presence of Soviet troops.

Still Critical

In Pilsen, brewery worker Jose. Havaty remained in critical condition from self-inflicted burns he suffered Monday.

Student sources said government and party leaders tentatively agreed to student demands at a meeting prompted by Palach's death. The demands included holding a party congress, calling elections and easing censorship, the sources said.

New Mid-Town Parking Facility For 170-190 Cars Being Planned

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The city is making plans to purchase the Blackstone Pharmacy on Broadway and the adjacent building as a parking facility for mid-town shoppers. The Freeman learned today.

The Freeman has also learned that the Traffic Committee of the Common Council will meet Tuesday night at the call of its chairman, Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) to discuss the purchase of the two buildings. The committee also includes Michael Perry (D-Seventh Ward) and John Machione (R-Second Ward).

The Blackstone Pharmacy is located at 638-642 Broadway. The adjoining building is located at 644-648 Broadway and is owned by the Grant M. Brinnier Estate of Saugerties.

Perry, who has been doing most of the investigative work for the committee, appeared optimistic about the possibility of purchasing the property. "It looks pretty good," Perry told The Freeman.

However, he admitted there are still a number of questions to be answered before any definite action could be taken.

Must Agree on Price

"We have to get estimates on tearing down the buildings," Perry said. "We also have to agree on a purchase price and decide if the whole project is worthwhile."

Preliminary estimates show that between 170 and 190 cars could be parked on the land where the two buildings are situated. The pharmacy measures 68 feet wide by 175 feet deep while the Brinnier building is 68 by 183 feet.

Cost, is of course, an important factor. The Blackstone building is assessed at $22,750 while the Brinnier building is assessed at $14,750.

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan evidently approves of Perry's work on the project. He told The Freeman, "That Mike Perry is the hardest working alderman I've ever seen. He's on the job 24 hours a day." One of Garraghan's programs, released in his annual message, Jan. 1, was parking for the mid-town merchants.

Mancuso is apparently in favor of the parking lot but wants to know where the money is going to come from.

Garraghan has said that he will not borrow any money this year and has not provided any money in his budget for the purchase of parking facilities.

Backing Mayor

On the other hand, the people most directly concerned, the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association are in favor of the project. "We're backing the mayor on this plan," Frank Reis, president of the Association told The Freeman.

"We haven't really complained about the parking," Reis said. "We realize the problems the mayor has. We (the Central Broadway Businessmen) are really spread out. One parking lot probably wouldn't solve the problem."

Reis said there has been some discussion of tearing down a building at 351 Broadway across the street from Abel's Market for parking. Garraghan met with Reis and other businessmen of the area to discuss that possibility last fall.

Meanwhile, Uptown, progress on the proposed parking garage on the site of the old Montgomery Ward Building on North Front Street goes forward.

The Urban Renewal Agency met last night and awarded a pile test contract to John Ar-borio of Poughkeepsie to conduct soil studies for the new building.

James G. Connors, executive director of the agency, told The Freeman that work on the soil tests would begin immediately. The tests will show the strength of the ground and that information will determine what type of foundation will be used for the proposed building.

On Budget: Leap Backward

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats were overflowing with criticism, as expected, but Republicans were moodily non-committal as the legislature pondered today the implications of Gov. Rockefeller's $6.4-billion budget plan.

The Republican-dominated fiscal committees of the Senate and Assembly tentatively scheduled public hearings on the tax-spend-economy plan for Feb. 11-12 in Albany.

First, however, they were awaiting receipt of the actual "line-item" spending plan, in which Rockefeller will detail his proposals for each state agency and program. That's due on Thursday—technically, at least, breaching the Jan. 21 deadline for submitting the budget.

What he gave the legislature Tuesday was a comprehensive description of his fiscal plan, contained in the annual budget message. He did not deliver it in person but sent copies of the message to each lawmaker.

Clerks in the Senate and Assembly read excerpts, by way of formally acknowledging its receipt.

There was no significant reaction in the Assembly, but a Democratic senator arose in his house to attack the budget and expressed surprise later when no Republican came to its defense.

Reflects Uneasiness

The GOP silence reflected uneasiness in both parties over hometown reaction to the governor's most controversial proposal—a five per cent, across-the-board cutback from normal fiscal year beginning April 1.

They were concerned about the effect on communities and school boards in their home districts, since most had counted on additional state aid in arranging their own budgets.

They wondered whether local property taxes would have to be raised to make up for Rockefeller's proposed economies and whether they would suffer politically from such a move.

Alternatively they talked of deeper cutbacks in other areas of the budget—notably expenses for running the state government itself—and applying these savings to alleviate the retrenchment in state aid.

That was the trend of Republican comment.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. said the GOP majority in his house "readily endorses and welcomes the governor's request that spending be adjusted downward."

But Duryea asserted, as he had before, that cuts should be more "selective."

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said he supported the governor's approach "in general" but would "maintain an open mind on the subject until the legislature's fiscal experts and the public have had a chance to examine and report on the specifics."

Republicans appeared generally resigned to the other budget-balancing device proposed by Rockefeller—a rise in the state's sales tax from two to three cents on the dollar.

Democrats didn't care for that, at all, arguing that the sales tax hits hardest at low-income persons. But they reserved their heaviest fire for the proposed economy cut.

Local Crisis: Levitt

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said the governor's plan would replace "a major crisis for the state" with "hundreds of local crises for our communities."

The legislature's Democratic minority leaders, Sen. Joseph

Zaretzki and Assemblyman Stanley Szeingut, joined in a statement calling the budget plan "a great leap backward." They protested it would have "a cruel impact" on public education, welfare and health, if adopted.

Disatisfaction also was expressed by the largest union of state employees, the Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA), which found the governor's proposed four per cent pay raise for state workers quite inadequate.

New Abortion Bill Ready

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Assemblyman who has led the fight to liberalize New York State's 86-year-old abortion law will introduce another bill next week to change it amid indications the lawmakers are ready for reform.

Albert H. Blumenthal, Manhattan Democrat and deputy minority leader of the Assembly, told the Associated Press Tuesday his latest bill would introduce the past three years and a couple of new ones.

State Sen. D. Clinton Dominick III, a Newburgh Republican, will again co-sponsor the bill in the upper house, Blumenthal said.

Prospects for the passage of some form of an abortion bill seem bright this year because of statements by legislative leaders that it is time for change.

The existing statute permits abortion only when the mother's life is in danger.

Blumenthal wants to extend it to allow abortion if the pregnancy was caused by rape or incest, if the person is 15 years of age or under, if the imminent birth poses possible impairment to the mother's health or if there is the possibility the child would have consequential mental or physical defects.

He said his bill also has some new provisions for reporting a pregnancy, some new procedures for getting an abortion approved and one other ground for having it performed.

Charge Store Employee With Grand Larceny

TOWN OF ULSTER — A 43-year-old Kingston employee of Big Scot, Route 28, was arrested late Tuesday and charged with grand larceny, third degree and reporting false information, in connection with the alleged embezzlement of $1,225.71 of the company's funds.

William E. Henle of Elmendorf Street, reported to be a department manager, was arraigned later in the day before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly. Henle was committed to county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail, pending a hearing on Feb. 5.

Arresting officers were BCI Senior Investigator Edward Shannon of the state police and Sheriff William B. Martin and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers.

Henle reported to the sheriff's department Monday that a money bag containing two days' receipts at the store, totaling $1,225.71 was missing from his desk drawer in the store's stockroom. He identified it as a blue Rondout National Bank bag and said it was discovered missing last Thursday. He told the deputies that the bag contained bills of mixed denomination and change.

Authorities investigating the incident said the money reportedly missing from the department store was taken over a period of eight months.

Dancing Ban Off

GALWAY, Ireland (AP) — Bishop Michael Browne has ended a 30-year old ban on Saturday night dancing in the diocese of Galway. The ban was imposed by an earlier bishop who feared that late night dancing would discourage people from attending early Sunday masses. Changes in the law about eucharistic fasting and the introduction of evening masses have now removed the problem.

Goodell to Attend Opening Of Fish's Office in Hudson

Sen. Charles Goodell (R-N.Y.) will be among those attending the opening of Congressman Hamilton Fish's Hudson District office Friday. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 p.m. at 590 Warren Street.

All Columbia and Greene County Republican committeemen and officials have been invited.

"Although the office has been open and operating for the past week, the Saturday official opening is to get people fully acquainted with the new quarters," Congressman Fish said.

The new district office is being shared with Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane and Senator Douglas Hudson. It is located over the Savings and Loan Association offices in Hudson.

"Although invitations are being sent to committeemen and officials, the public is cordially invited to drop in and visit us. The office is there to be of service to the people of our district, and everyone is welcome," Fish stated.

In charge of the Hudson office is Mrs. Frank Mazzacano. Albert Callan, former Columbia County Republican chairman, is Fish's concluded.

Board Raps Governor On Cuts

ACCORD—The Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education Tuesday night called Gov. Rockefeller's outline of a five per cent cut in the state-aid formulas for local schools as "a serious blow to quality education" and said cutbacks would have to be made on the local level.

Board President George Stokin issued the statement on the governor's budget message in which he said the children will be the ones to suffer most.

The governor's $6.4-billion budget calls for a five per cent cutback that includes cuts in the state-aid formula, now in the area of $750 per student. The only alternative to an equal cut in local school operations would be an increase in local school taxes.

The board tended to follow the governor's austerity feeling when it said cuts in the formula "can only result in cuts in services."

A representative of the board will have the opportunity to meet with Rockefeller when he visits Rockland County Friday to discuss the budget with area officials. The board said a member will be present at the meeting and that the member would give the board's views on the matter.

Other action taken at the regular board meeting in the Middle School included the appointment of Robert Fuhr, teacher-principal of the Rosendale school, as a half-time teacher half-time principal to allow him more time to supervise operations at the new Rosendale School.

The new school is scheduled to be open by next fall.

Gallo to Sub at Rockland Meet

Ray Hedges on Some of Rocky's Budget Exceptions

MAYOR GARRAGHAN

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan could not find time to fit Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller into his schedule so he has asked Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo to attend one of the governor's "Town Meetings" tomorrow morning in Rockland County.

Too Late
The mayor received the invitation from the governor Tuesday but it apparently came too late. The meeting will take place at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Mary Davidson School Auditorium in Letchworth Village, Rockland County.

Joining Gallo will be City Treasurer Stan J. Petro Jr. and Recreation Superintendent Andrew J. Murphy III. The Freeman also learned that Louis J.

Smith, president of the Kingston Rotary Club, has been invited. Garraghan has maintained his original stand of backing Rockefeller's budget cuts but took exception to proposed exceptions. "He (Rockefeller) should cut that budget five per cent all the way down the line. There should be no exceptions. It's either everybody or nobody," the mayor said.

And Without Hike
Rockefeller also proposed an increase of one per cent in the two per cent state sales tax. Garraghan doesn't go along with that. "If I had time," Garraghan said, "I'd go up there and show him how to balance his budget without the sales tax hike."

Garraghan said that Rockefeller "got in over his head" on two projects, the sewage treatment proposals and the Albany Mall.

"He should have spread those sewage treatment plants over a 25 to 30 year period, not two years," Garraghan said. The city of Kingston is obligated to spend more than $700,000 for a sewage treatment plant within two years. The sewage treatment program was part of Rockefeller's over-all anti-pollution program. Concerning the Albany Mall, now in construction, Garraghan said, "That Mall will wind up did disclose plans for meeting with the area's two state representatives, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison. "They're the people who will be voting on his budget," Garraghan concluded.

Name Dressel President of Farm Society

Roderick Dressel was elected President of the Ulster County Agricultural Society recently at a meeting held at 74 John Street, Society offices. It was also announced that Chester DuMond Jr., second vice president; Harold Wood, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Van Alst, secretary and Joseph Casano, manager.

Warden of Wallkill Hails 'Air' Program

The Warden of Wallkill Prison says the University of the Air has added "an important new dimension to education in the prison."

Warden Charles L. McKendrick told a press conference in New York City that over 100 inmates in three institutions operated by the State Department of Correction are now involved in the University of the Air educational program.

Enriching Experience
Warden McKendrick, who supervises operation of the medium security prison located near New Paltz, said the University of the Air "has proven to be a most enriching educational experience, and inmates tell me they feel their day in prison was not wasted when they have availed themselves of the program and the credit it offers."

CTA Reelects, Sets Dividend

Officers of CTA Public Relations, Inc., were reelected and a stock dividend declared at the annual meeting of the board of directors Jan. 17 at the corporation's 52 Main Street office.

Renamed to corporate office were John R. Warren, president; Neil N. Whitehurst, vice-president and Neil E. Ryder, secretary-treasurer.

Directors declared an annual dividend of $3 per share payable Feb. 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 1, 1969.

At the first annual meeting of shareholders, immediately preceding the directors' meeting, Warren, Whitehurst and Ryder were reelected to the board of directors. More than 88 per cent of the firm's outstanding stock was voted at the meeting in person or by proxy.

CTA was incorporated one year ago, continuing and expanding the public relations and advertising counseling business established in 1960 as Communications Talents Associated. Staff officers are Warren, president and Joan M. Conway, director of creative services. Prof. Whitehurst and Ryder serve as consultants in management and finance, respectively.

cuss the University of the Air program in New York State Prisons. One of the former inmates, Donald Ward, of Long Island, told those attending the press conference that he found the University of the Air presentations "more stimulating, more interesting and more advanced than any other instruction" he had received before being sentenced to prison.

Another former inmate, William Runyon, of Manhattan, told of receiving university credit in Humanities and American History. He was sentenced for first degree assault and is now steadily employed and is under the supervision of the Division of Parole.

The third former inmate, who served a 14 year term for homicide, said he became interested in the University of the Air and received college credit for Latin American and American History and that he plans to enroll in college full-time in February.

Other State Department of Correction institutions which are now participating in the program are Auburn Prison and Matteawan State Hospital at Beacon.

Appearing with Warden McKendrick were Robert E. Thomas, vice chancellor for educational communications for the State University, and Dean Carl E. Hiller of the School of General Studies, Queens College of the City University of New York.

Warden McKendrick explained that only one out of 10 offenders sentenced to the State Department of Correction has a high school education. About a third test fifth grade level or below, and many have language difficulties.

Many Others Watch
"When the idea of the University of the Air was first proposed, there were those who said prison inmates would not be interested in such advanced education. But many inmates have made great gains through the programs; and they will return to society as better men," said the Warden.

He said that many other inmates not enrolled in the University of the Air were watching the programs as a supplement to their correspondence courses through the State University.

Confident Of Hickel OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says it is confident Walter J. Hickel will win Senate confirmation as interior secretary although opponents succeeded in blocking him from joining 11 other cabinet appointees at swearing-in ceremonies today.

"There is not a great wave of concern about Secretary Hickel's confirmation," said White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler. "We are confident it will happen."

Hickel was left out of the ceremonies for the 11 other appointees in the East Room of the White House because an unnamed Democrat demanded a printed record of his testimony before the Senate Interior Committee.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the Government Printing Office couldn't deliver the transcript of the three-day hearing until today at the earliest. Once in hand debate probably would take at least one day and possibly two, he said.

President Nixon reportedly put off swearing in of his Cabinet until today in hopes the Alaska governor could be included.

The 11 Cabinet appointees were approved by the Senate without dissent Monday.

The three interior Committee Democrats who opposed Hickel's nomination—George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Frank E. Moss of Utah—planned to make brief statements explaining their votes during the Hickel debate.

But such other opponents as Democratic Sens. William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Alan B. Cranston of California also were expected to speak, possibly at some length.

Very Able: Dirksen
Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen meanwhile defended the Hickel appointment, saying "He is a very able guy. He knows as much if not more about our interior domain than a lot of other people who have had that job."

Ans. Dirksen, in what was seen as a move to ease fears from conservationists worried about Hickel's views, confirmed with Nixon's approval that Russell E. Train, president of the Conservation Foundation, would be named undersecretary of the interior.

Train's name was not among a batch of subcommittee appointments, previously announced, submitted to the Senate by Nixon Tuesday, but it is expected to be sent up soon.

On the Tuesday list was electronics tycoon David R. Packard, Nixon's choice as deputy secretary of defense.

But Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said in a Senate speech that the Packard nomination arrangements are made for; his $300 million of stock in Hewlett-Packard Co., an electronics manufacturer which does considerable Pentagon business.

Packard said it would be impossible for him to sell the stock, and it is to be placed in trust with interest and proceeds from any increase of value to go to charity.

But Gore said Packard would still have an interest in making sure its value did not go down and that contracts made while he is at the Pentagon could benefit him later on.

"It would be a precedent, a most unfortunate precedent, of abandonment of conflict of interest safeguards with respect to confirmation of a nominee for deputy secretary of defense with a prima facie conflict of interest," the Tennessee Democrat said.

The Packard nomination has been approved unanimously by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Mitchell Vows Crime Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General John N. Mitchell has promised to fight crime "on all fronts," including by wiretapping and possible tightening of bail procedure. But he says he will be surprised if the crime rates drop immediately.

And two of Mitchell's newly appointed assistant attorneys general say the Nixon administration would provide "vigorous enforcement" of antitrust and civil rights laws.

Approves Wire Taps
Tuesday Mitchell told the newsmen he personally would approve any wire taps or other forms of electronic surveillance. He said he would make sure nothing is done in any surveillance "to invade the privacy of those not directly involved."

"I would be very much surprised if the crime rate dropped immediately," Mitchell told questioners. But he said a drop would occur if bail procedures were made stricter. He referred to suspects who easily gain release on bail and subsequently are arrested for other crimes. Mitchell said he was retaining Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, No. 3 man in the Justice Department and former dean of the Harvard Law School. He also said he was retaining Asst. Attys. Gen. J. Walter Yeagley, in charge of the Internal Security Division, and Leo M. Pelleri, administration.

New Appointments

New appointments included: —Richard G. Kleindienst, Phoenix, Ariz., deputy attorney general. Kleindienst was one of three Arizonans who were mainly responsible for getting the presidential nomination for Barry M. Goldwater in 1964, and he was Nixon's national field director and general counsel to the Republican National Committee in 1968. —Former Indiana House Majority Leader William D. Ruckelshaus, 35, unsuccessful GOP senatorial candidate against Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., last fall, as assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division, replacing Edwin M. Zimmerman.

11 of 12 Sworn In WASHINGTON (UPI)—Eleven of the 12 men President Nixon chose for his cabinet were sworn in early today along with U.N. Ambassador Charles Yost and Budget Director Robert Mayo.

Chief Justice Earl Warren administered the oath at an 8 a.m. ceremony in the White House as the new Chief Executive looked on.

The twelfth cabinet member, Interior Secretary designate Walter J. Hickel, still lacked Senate confirmation but Nixon was confident it would be granted soon, possibly later today.

After a brief coffee hour, the President and his cabinet met officially for the first time to discuss the business of the administration.

In only the second full day of the new administration, several new features were emerging. It was becoming apparent Nixon would:

—Restore regular meetings of the Cabinet and National Security Council.

—Depend on staff-prepared memos for the news, instead of the three television sets and wire service tickers former President Lyndon B. Johnson kept close at hand.

—Spend a great deal of time working adjacent to the White House in the Executive Office Building.

—Go to work early in the morning, and expect his staff—apparently including his Cabinet, too—to do the same. He told the Cabinet to show up at 7:30 this morning.

One of Nixon's first official acts inauguration day was to officially appoint his Cabinet, and the Senate quickly followed

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 22, 1969

War Now More Senseless

We have been warned repeatedly not to expect early agreement of any kind at the Paris peace table. This is readily understood when we consider the months of haggling over such inconsequential issues as the shape of the table. During this senseless wrangling, eight thousand American boys died on Vietnam battlefields.

Our real concern is not the dragging out of these negotiations by the Communist propagandists, but the further loss of American lives. The long weekend of violence by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to strengthen the hands of their negotiators is an indication of the murderous lengths they will go to gain a point.

If they are genuinely interested in ending the war, why don't they end the fighting now and then the negotiators can wrangle over the terms of peace as long as they want?

Why must more young men die since peace must eventually come and there is nothing further to be gained by either side?

Controlled Boom

Professional labor experts in Government, the men who serve one Administration after another, are confident that they can go a long way toward helping President-elect Nixon to keep his campaign promise to curb inflation without throwing anybody out of work—or almost anybody.

They are helped by Government economists, who are also people who stay from Administration to Administration. They believe that the slow down the first half of the year will not seriously cut employment. The jobless at year's end was 3.3 per cent, a low since Korea. The best guesses are that it will rise to about 3.8 per cent at most.

There are some good reasons for the optimism. One is that there is a labor shortage. Good workers are hard to come by. Industry does not want to lose them. It has learned it is costlier to find and train replacements. There is also some sentiment about keeping the newcomers, while laying off older workers to draw workmen's compensation while they rest until business picks up in the last half.

President-elect Nixon is expected to back anything that will keep unemployment under four per cent. That is the danger mark. At hand is one proven weapon—quick expansion of federal and local programs in the ghettos—for his urban adviser to test.

Spenders of Pestilence

At other times, when communication was slow, nations shut their doors to neighbors who were afflicted with pestilence to keep the disease away. Now, since jet planes have eliminated all barriers, so that a Hong Kong flu circles the globe in a season, we are told that the way to health is to upgrade undeveloped nations and rid them of the reservoirs of pestilence they harbor.

It is a new argument for foreign aid, and one we will hear more about this year. There is no question, that the world has shrunk and we are all subject to diseases which are borne by jet planes across national boundaries. Sanitation will help, but there are not enough physicians to eliminate the germs that attack humankind without notice most anywhere.

International travelers usually take precautionary shots against indigenous diseases when going to foreign countries on national business. Perhaps this practice should be extended to other travelers who cross boundaries. Also, planes in international flight should be fumigated as ships used to be years ago.

Foreign aid should be considered wholly on its usefulness to this nation. It should not be made an excuse for all projects that occur.

"All of a Sudden He Looks Taller!"

David Lawrence Says

Spirit of Freedom, Harmony Marks Nixon Inaugural

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's address to the Nation immediately after he took the oath of office Monday was impressive. There were no innuendos of political partisanship, no criticisms of the preceding administration, no words of boastfulness or extravagant promise. It was just the message of a man who emphasized his own confidence that the American people could unite and go "forward together."

Naturally no specific courses of action relating to pending problems were outlined. The speech was rather an attempt to achieve a unity of thought behind the fundamental principles which must guide the new administration and the country.

"I ask you," Mr. Nixon said, "to share with me today the majesty of this moment. In the orderly transfer of power, we celebrate the unity that keeps us free."

All over the world thoughtful people, particularly in countries not so free, must have been challenged by the spirit of freedom and harmony which marked the event. Television and radio now enable inhabitants of distant countries to see how a great democracy changes its chief executive without rancor, without revolutionary outbreaks, and without the seizure of power that has led to autocracy and dictatorship.

The American people place authority in the hands of one man but only within the limits specified in a written constitution.

So the inaugural is in truth a symbol of democratic government, and the ceremony is a historical moment when the defeated join the victors in expressing hope for a successful administration.

The new President's address did not, of course, ignore the realities of the age — the factional differences, the bitterness between groups, and the uprisings of dissent. He said:

"In these difficult years, America has suffered from a fever of words: From inflated rhetoric that promises more than it can deliver; from angry rhetoric that fans discontents into hatreds; from bombastic rhetoric that postures instead of persuading. We cannot learn from one another until we stop shouting at one another — until we speak quietly enough so that our words can be heard as well as our voices."

"For its part, government will listen. We will strive to listen in new ways — to the voices of quiet anguish, the voices that speak without words, the voices of the heart — to the injured voices, the anxious voices, the voices that have despaired of being heard."

This is an appeal to reason as against movements of protest by violence and disorder. Mr. Nixon broadened his theme to cover world affairs, too. He declared that "the peace we seek to win is not victory over any other people, but the peace that comes with healing in its wings; with compassion for those who have suffered; with understanding for those who have opposed us; with the opportunity for all the peoples of this earth to choose their own destiny."

Mr. Nixon's inaugural address will be appraised in history as a timely presentation of thoughts which lie deep in the hearts of the American people today.

So inauguration days are full of hope and time alone can tell whether the hopes and wishes of the people will be fulfilled.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Words are my trade and I hammer them into the crude images which create a bridge between us. Then I break the bridge and start over. This time — just this once — I do not have the words. There is a poverty of thought and I dredge the bottom of my mind for the proper, hard-boiled thing to say. I was doing well until you sent all those notes of condolence which may require weeks to read and months to acknowledge.

The lush sentiment is reserved to those who can weep. Unfortunately, I cannot. Tears would not come when my mother left us, and the same thing happened this time, when my father left at age 85. There is an unseen hand which grips the throat and stops the breathing momentarily.

Death is real, but tears are a fake. They stagger down the sides of the cliffs of the face like rain drops on broken windows. Twice I was almost trapped into becoming maudlin. Once was when I watched all those Jersey City police captains, under the command of Inspector Frank Moran. Suddenly, the deep bell of St. Paul's Church tolled and the reverberations shattered the silence of the street and buses stopped with short sighs.

Another time was when I was reading all the messages and I found one from an old buddy, Frank Quinn, who writes publicity for the city of Miami Beach. He was aware that I had been wrking funny stories about my old man for a number of years and he cracked me hard when he penned: "True, he was everybody's old man and we will miss him too. You gave us who are without fathers something to share and we join you in your sad orphanage."

"No tears," John M. Bishop had said frequently. "No children. Anyone good enough to show up, buy them a drink and a good dinner out of my insurance money." Another time he had said: "I lived a life and a half, maybe two. I'm ahead of the game and I'm not afraid to go."

Still, his Irish Catholicity caused him to pen a will in which he decreed that $300 was to be set aside for masses for the repose of his soul. The more he thought about the lovely pleasures of his sins, the more he wanted to increase the amount. The final figure in the will was $500. He probably figured that if five hundred wouldn't get him through the pearly gates, then the hell with it.

Burial itself is devoid of taste. It rubs salt in the heart

On the whole, the inaugural of 1969 was a significant example of how well the spirit and will toward unity can be emphasized even in an event that marked the defeat of one party and the victory of another.

In Washington itself, inauguration day was cold, but the spirit surrounding it was warm. There was an atmosphere of friendliness between the outgoing and the incoming President.

It was the fifteenth inaugural this correspondent has attended. Although the temperature was in the '30's this time, as it has often been in the past, at least everybody throughout the world knew simultaneously what was going on. This writer recalls that on March 4, 1909, when he was a student at Princeton University, hardly anybody outside of Washington knew at noon or for several hours thereafter whether William Howard Taft had taken the oath of office. All the telegraph and telephone wires were down, and the transmission of messages to and from the nation's capital was disrupted. The trains were halted, and the roads blocked by a blizzard of snow and freezing weather.

The next day Woodrow Wilson, then a Professor of Constitutional Government at Princeton, was telling our class that Mr. Taft had a great chance to succeed if he would interpret correctly the public opinion of the hour. Four years later Mr. Wilson himself, as President of the United States, had the duty of gauging public opinion.

So inauguration days are full of hope and time alone can tell whether the hopes and wishes of the people will be fulfilled.

and robs it of intelligent feeling. A freezing winter wind curled around the freshly turned earth, and the sky was clear and blue with a solitary ribbon of cloud. The Hudson County police had sent two squad cars, and Inspector Moran stood before the open grave with his captains at hand salute. I wished to be done with it, but it is customary to wring the living dry.

In a manner of speaking, the police had taken command of the final rites, and I shook my head in wonderment because this is precisely the way John M. would have wished it. The little heads, one had been knocked down. It read: "Bishop." Underneath, in smaller letters, it said: "1884 Jenny J. 1957."

The clear cold wind tore through the topcoat and froze the knuckles. The priest intoned the final brief to the supreme court, and Big John joined Jenny. I looked around. Runyon was right: It is a stone orchard. It is thousands of losing mutual tickets: an array of names with no addresses. It is big bare black trees groaning in the wind and the shivering of thousands of small flowers strung up to die.

There is nothing good or principled about it, nor do I believe that I am going to see this man again. "My Father's houses have many mansions..."

Drew Pearson Says

Senate Set Lower Ethical Standards for Nixon Cabinet

WASHINGTON — Unquestionably the Senate set lower ethical standards for the Nixon cabinet than for previous cabinets, and this was because the Senate itself had lowered its own ethical standards.

Insomuch as the senators had refused to list their own assets with the Secretary of the Senate, it was difficult for them to insist that new cabinet members sell their stock in conflict-of-interest companies. Last year it was Everett McKinley Dirksen, the basso-profundo from Illinois, who repeatedly objected to listing personal assets with the Secretary of the Senate. He said it would be an insult to fellow senators. Dirksen, of course, has a prosperous law firm in Peoria.

This year it was the same Ev Dirksen who worked behind the scenes to lower the standards for cabinet officers. Thus although Robert McNamara sold around $1,000,000 of Ford Motor Company stock and Charley Wilson sold more than $2,000,000 of General Motors stock before either became Secretary of Defense, David Packard did not sell all his electronic stock before becoming Undersecretary of Defense.

Packard, incidentally, is a high calibre executive, whom Nixon originally considered for Secretary of Defense. He took the second spot in the Defense Department hoping that the Senate would be lenient regarding his stock disposal. It was.

But where the Senate showed the greatest lowering of ethical standards in contrast with the past was in regard to Walter J. Hickel, sometimes called "Help Yourself" Hickel, the new Secretary of the Interior.

No Moral Indignation

No later than the Truman administration, Ed Pauley, the west coast businessman, was blocked as Undersecretary of the Navy because he had invested in oil. In the Navy, Pauley would have had charge of buying fuel oil, not of the Elk Hills oil reserve, which is under the care of the Interior Department. Nevertheless, opposition to Pauley was so great even in a Democratic Senate, that President Truman withdrew his name.

The present Democratic Senate has given the Republican administration much more lenient treatment regarding another oil man, Wally Hickel. There was no moral indignation. In fact the Senate Interior Committee did not even send an investigator to Alaska to check on Gov. Hickel. It only started checking his oil leases after they were disclosed by the press.

The public however, was far from apathetic. Approximately 150,000 letters and telegrams were received by senators in opposition to Hickel, more than has been received against any cabinet appointee in history.

Hickel, of course, was astute in minimizing his oil connections. Furthermore the Senate Interior Committee is stocked with western senators who figure they have to get along with Hickel once he becomes Secretary of the Interior.

Also at least one member of the committee, Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., has oil affiliations.

His law firm, Allott and Rogers, represents the Plateau Natural Gas Company, and in the Senate Allott has voted consistently for oil and gas companies. During the hearings on "Help Yourself" Hickel, Allott squirmed and scowled when Sen. Gaylord Nelson, the Wisconsin Democrat, put Hickel through a cross-examination regarding the problems of the Interior Department which obviously the new Secretary of the Interior knew nothing about.

Finally, and only when it was revealed in the press, did the Senate Committee get around to questioning Hickel about the fact that he had 2,500 acres of oil land under lease from 1953 to 1963, and nearly 100,000 acres of top filed leases from 1963 to 1965 at which time the Supreme Court declared top-leasing invalid. Top-leasing is leasing on top of someone else's lease.

Hickel, though asked about his oil and gas connections early in the hearings, had not chosen to reveal any of this. It came up, as a result of press disclosures, only at the last Interior Committee meeting which had expected to vote Hickel's confirmation.

Flabbergasted senators then put through some phone calls to Anchorage, confirmed Hickel's oil leases and showed the final vote over another day. They never did check on one interesting lease filed Feb. 1, 1963, AMCH-058863, in the name of "Walter J. Hickel, care of Colorado Oil and Gas, Denver." What Hickel's connections were with Colorado Oil and Gas have never been disclosed, but obviously he had some connection with a major oil company.

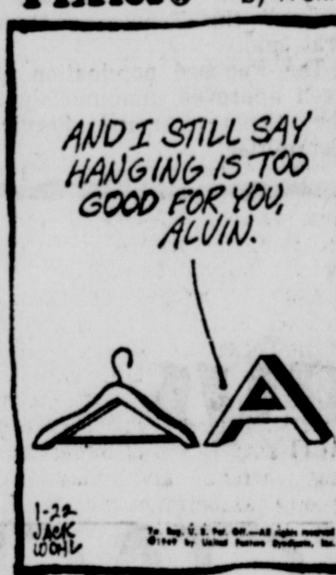

Meanwhile senators could have queried the Bureau of Land Management one month ago regarding Hickel's oil connections instead of waiting until the last minute to read about them in the Washington Post.

Earlier Hickel had minimized, evaded and fallen back on a faulty memory whenever oil or gas came up. He even described Tom Kelly, his commissioner of Natural resources as a "clerk" for Halibout Oil, when he knew and later admitted that Kelly was Executive Vice President of Halibout Oil. Furthermore, Kelly, while in charge of Alaskan oil lands, invested in 1400 shares of British Petroleum, one of the major developers of Alaskan North Slope Oil.

As Secretary of the Interior Hickel will be called upon to decide whether to renew three British Petroleum leases in Alaska next year, and two in 1970, together with various other companies whose leases expire on federal land. Most of these companies, through their executive, were heavy contributors to Gov. Hickel's reelection campaign.

Those are some of the conflicts of interest Hickel will have to face when he takes over the biggest government land mass outside Soviet Russia.

Johnson's 'Good-Guy' Budget Is Full of Traps for Nixon

By RAY CROMLEY

(NEA Washington Correspondent)
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — A study of President Johnson's final budget brings a number of peculiarities to light.

In several ways the document seems calculated to saddle Mr. Nixon with Johnson policies. Other items seem set up to trap the new President politically.

The main thrust, however, seems aimed at making Johnson show up well historically in a budget he will not be required to live with. Take the matter of spending.

The Congress approved the Johnson surplus on the understanding that Johnson would cut expenditures. Johnson was expected to shave some $6 billion in new contracts. But Congress left a loophole. It called for expenditure cuts but forgot to specify an equivalent reduction in the awarding of contracts.

Johnson has taken advantage of this loophole. His administration didn't obligate the shelved funds so long as the expenditure would fall during the Johnson term of office. But in the weeks before the Nixon take-over, the Johnson men were heavily placing new obligations — that is, letting new contracts that will come up for payment in Nixon's term.

This tactic kept spending low in Johnson's last year, but forces the heavier expenditures on the Nixon administration. By obligating the funds, Johnson forces an extension of his policies on Nixon. It is very difficult and expensive — in money and political effect — to withdraw contracts once let.

Johnson apparently has set two further traps for Nixon. He has presented nearly balanced budgets with a surplus of $2.4 billion for fiscal 1969 and a surplus of $3.4 billion for fiscal 1970. But in achieving these paper balances in the black, Johnson has greatly underestimated the cost of:

The Vietnam war.
 Research and development required to carry out budget programs.

Replenishing military arms and supplies now at a dangerously low level as the result of the fighting in Southeast Asia.

Buildings, equipment and supplies for a wide variety of programs throughout the government.

These hidden underestimates seem designed to require Nixon to come back for more funds. They seem aimed at insuring Nixon will end up in the red, though Johnson presented him with a budget "in the black."

Watch the news for major supplements before June 30. The third trap Johnson has set for Nixon is in the heavily expanded "social" programs.

The Johnson budget for 1970 funnels money rapidly into a number of young, untested programs.

The experience in foreign aid, education aid and the war on poverty is that when huge amounts of money are quickly poured into unproven new programs, the inevitable result has been waste, corruption, graft, inefficiency. Current exposures of financial irregularities in New York City's poverty program are an example. Often a great deal of harm is done to the intended recipients.

This has been so in programs where the objectives were clear and the basic concepts sound. It has been even more true when the government has moved into fields in which experience was limited or objectives vague.

Yet, once in a budget proffered to Congress, it will be difficult politically for Nixon to slash away at unrealistic funding proposals. He will be accused of being insensitive to the needs of the poor, minorities and young people. Alternately, if he goes ahead at the pace outlined in Johnson's budget, the new President will leave himself open to charges of waste, bungling and mismanagement.

10 Years of Castro Enough For Cuba and Reds Alike

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA) — A grim symbolism marked the tenth anniversary of Fidel Castro's rise to power when 8 men and women fought past Cuban Communist guards in a desperate escape into the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo.

The escapees, from many parts of Cuba and all walks of life, included students, workers and Negroes. They risked their lives, they said, because they could no longer endure hunger and Castro's rule of terror.

A decade ago this month, when this writer reached Havana after the fall of Batista's dictatorship, Castro was hailed as a liberator not only in Cuba but throughout Latin America. A majority of Cubans hoped that he would bring them freedom and a better life after years of repression.

Castro, of course, thought differently. He was already in 1959, as the Russians now admit, a convinced Marxist-Leninist and a member of Moscow's secret organization of guerrillas in Latin America.

Instead of holding free elections as promised, Castro organized a Soviet-type police state. He threw many of his trusting collaborators, including the idealistic Huber Matos, into prisons where they are still languishing as unpersons.

In the name of a mythical Marxist-Leninist society that he set out to create, he introduced a system of forced labor and told the Cubans to tighten their belts even more.

"Not only is there not enough to eat in Cuba, but they force you to spend extra hours in the field after a 54-hour work week," said a Negro worker among the lucky who reached Guantanamo.

Such complaints are not new. Tens of thousands of refugees have given similar accounts of life in Castro's socialist state. What is new is increasing evidence that even Castro's Russian sponsors are now convinced that his economic and ultrarevolutionary policies are a failure.

They would like him to concentrate on producing more sugar and improving Cuba's economy while leaving it to Moscow to decide when revolution ought to take place in Latin America.

But Castro, having tasted power, has convinced himself that, as a Communist strategist, he is equal to Lenin and Mao Tse-tung. He insists he knows better than the Russians how to accelerate the revolutionary process in Latin America.

No wonder the pro-Soviet leaders of Venezuela, Bolivia and Colombia castigated him publicly for meddling in their internal affairs. Castro, in turn, charged that a "pseudo-revolutionary Mafia" of Latin-American Reds is trying to depose him and moderate the policies of the Cuban revolution.

The Russians are stuck with him — for the immediate future at least. They cannot as yet afford to admit that Marxism-Leninism is a fiasco in the only country of the Western Hemisphere where Communists attained power.

If Cuba, like Czechoslovakia, bordered on Russia instead of the United States, Soviet parachutists would have long ago eliminated Castro as they are now in the process of ending the power of Alexander Dubcek in Prague. But since Cuba is, in effect, shielded by the United States, Moscow must continue to spend $1 million dollars a day to bolster the Castro dictatorship.

Perhaps, as Castro's dwindling intellectual supporters in the United States and elsewhere insist, the decade of his rule has not been without some positive results. But they, too, concede that Cuba is in a state of economic chaos.

Can Castro survive another decade? History shows that popularity and influence is on the decline.

LBJ's Popularity Problem Stemmed From Vietnam War

PRINCETON, N.J. — As the Johnson era came to a close, half of the American people, 49 per cent, approved of the President's handling of his job in his final weeks in office.

The President's popularity rating is up 14 points from its low point last August, (35 per cent approval), but is under the average of 54 per cent registered by Mr. Johnson over the last five years.

The history of President Johnson will be written not only on the basis of what he said and did, but in terms of the public's response to the man and his performance in office. Only through the medium of the scientific sample survey can this response be accurately gauged.

Not Least Popular President Johnson has not been our most popular President during the last three decades, but neither has he been the least popular.

Average ratings recorded for President Johnson's four predecessors were: John Kennedy — 70 per cent, Dwight Eisenhower — 66 per cent, Harry S. Truman — 46 per cent, and Franklin D. Roosevelt — 63 per cent.

President Johnson's popularity problems have stemmed primarily from the Vietnam war. As discouragement over the conflict in Southeast Asia grew, the President's rating declined. President Truman suffered the same kind of popularity difficulties during the Korean War in early fifties.

Interviewing in the latest survey was conducted between Jan. 3 and 12 with 1461 adults across the country. Following is the question asked in each of the 68 separate national surveys conducted since December 1963:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Johnson is handling his job as President?"

The latest results:

	Per Cent
Approve	49
Disapprove	37
No opinion	14

LBJ's Greatest Achievement

The American people, in looking back over the last 5 years, think President Johnson's greatest achievements have been in the area of domestic and social legislation.

Cited most often by those persons interviewed who give an opinion are (1) aid to the elderly, (2) civil rights legislation, (3) the poverty program and (4) economic prosperity.

What Can Nixon Expect?

If the past is a guide, Richard Nixon can expect a rather extended "honeymoon" with the American people. It usually is not until well into the second year that a Chief Executive is likely to suffer popularity problems.

At the end of his first 12 months in office, the average

Wallkill Wins in 2nd Round of Quiz Bowl

Wallkill Central High School was the winner over Washingtonville in the second week of competition in the Hudson Valley High School Radio Quiz Bowl last Saturday.

Wallkill team members, who scored 450 points, were Larry Powell and Jack Rower, both seniors, and Paul Burmeister, Amando Lopez and Daniel Francioli, all juniors.

On the Washingtonville squad, which tallied 320 points, were seniors Virginia Davis and Larry Siegler, and juniors Penny Davis, Peter Ashman, Kathy Devlin and Mike Zwart.

The Quiz Bowl, with 21 entrants from valley high schools, is carried live each Saturday at 10:10 a.m. by WGHQ, Kingston. The quiz is repeated the following Tuesday at 7:05 p.m. on WGHQ-FM.

Kingston Hospital Services Gain

A substantial increase in services and building plans were noted at the annual meeting of the Kingston Hospital Board of Trustees by Wilbur R. Peters, who was reelected president at the session this week.

Peters, who is Upper Hudson Division manager for Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, has served as president of the hospital board since July, 1968, when he was elected to fill the unexpired term of Edward C. Byman who transferred out of the area.

Other officers reelected are Arthur B. Ewig and Abraham Streifer, vice presidents; Amos R. Newcombe, treasurer; and Christus J. Larios, secretary.

Charles J. Lawson, president of Rotron Incorporated of Woodstock, was elected to the board for a three-year term, succeeding the late G. Herbert DeKay. Reelected to three-year terms as trustees were Larios, Newcombe, Peters, William Rylance and George J. Silkworth.

Other members of the board of trustees are Bevier H. Sleight, Robert Carnright, Ewig, David Forester, N. Jansen Fowler and Terry Staples, all with one year remaining on their terms; Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, Dr. Gilbert F. Hoppens, Dr. Richard M. Kalish, Dr. Strifer, Francis H. Delaney and Richard L. Treat, all with two years remaining.

Highlights of Year
In his annual report, Peters said that increase in services and the institution of new practices and procedures highlighted the year 1968 at Kingston Hospital.

Total patient days increased six per cent to 63,900, emergency room visits increased 9.5 per cent to 12,100, and the average occupancy for the year was 175, compared with 165 in 1967, Peters reported.

Among the new practices and procedures inaugurated during the year, the president listed the following:

- Formation of the Intensive Care - Coronary Care Unit in June. This facility, with a seven bed capacity, has been running at 66 per cent occupancy. To date eight nurses have been qualified to staff this unit under the training program conducted through the Albany Medical Center.

Plans Revised

- Plans for completion of the third and fourth floors have been studied and revised by members of the Building Committee under the direction of Christus J. Larios. This building program will cost over $750,000 and was let to bid last week.

- A Department of Inhalation Therapy was opened in September to give patients the benefits of more sophisticated treatments and diagnostic tests.

- The Ulster County Department of Health has made available to the hospital the services of a public health nurse coordinator to aid in a continuity-of-care program to assist patients after discharge from the hospital.

- Both the BOCES practical

Anniversary Date
Some outstanding events of the year listed in the president's report included the October 15 luncheon hosted by the board of trustees for the membership of the Ladies Auxiliary in honor of the Auxiliary's 75th anniversary, and the first annual dinner meeting in September held jointly by the board of trustees and the medical board.

Of the Auxiliary, Peters noted, the women serving under the presidency of Mrs. Harold Finkle contributed 16,800 volunteer hours to the hospital in 1968. Without their support "the hospital could not function as we know it today," he said.

Planned for this year is the installation of the hospital's own data processing equipment to be staffed and operated by the hospital's own personnel to perform many accounting functions. For the past several years the hospital has been contracting for the use of an Albany-based computer service.

In February a delegation of consultants from Albany Medical Center will visit the hospital to review its medical and administrative practices to analyze how these operations may best coordinate with the Medical Center.

Lauds Administrator
Peters reported that many of the new practices and procedures instituted in 1968 were "the direct result of the impact which the new administrator, Anthony R. Triulzi, has had upon the many segments of the hospital community. . . . Tony's enthusiasm and obvious dedication to his job has infused all segments of the hospital with a renewed vigor."

Horticultural Show Jan. 28-30

Many fruit growers from Eastern New York and New England will be attending the annual meeting and show of the New York State Horticultural Society at the Kingston Armory Jan. 28, 29 and 30, said Thomas E. LaMont of Albion, secretary of the Society.

Dr. Judd to Speak

The feature speaker this year will be the nationally famous lecturer and former Congressman, Dr. Walter Judd, who will speak on, "Where In the World Are We Going." Secretary LaMont said Dr. Judd received a standing ovation following his talk to growers at Rochester two years ago.

Another feature speaker is Dr. D. V. Fisher from British Columbia, Canada, who will discuss High Density Plantings for High Profits. He will also give an illustrated talk on fruit growing in British Columbia.

Richard Norton, fruit agent in Monroe and Orleans County, will give the yields on different rootstocks in his experimental plantings. He has about 8,000 trees in his trial apple orchards. Secretary LaMont said this is Norton also will report on his one of the best programs of three weeks at the experiment station in Europe last November. He will tell what rootstocks they are using, and how many trees they are planting per acre.

Dr. M. P. Catherwood, head of the State Labor Department, will speak on possible labor legislation affecting fruit growers, and will point out the importance of growers helping to shape this legislation.

Other topics to be covered are—Alar—the Miracle Material—What It Will and Will Not Do; New Materials to Control Pear Psyllid; The Value and Future of Our Weekly Storage Reports for New York and New England; What Federal Crop Insurance Can Do for Apple Growers; Moving the Coming Larger Apple Crops at a Profit.

Picking Aids for Harvesting Apples and Mechanical Pruning Aids will be discussed by growers and experiment station personnel. Rocky Berry, manager of the New York and New England Apple Institute will tell of its program to promote apple sales.

Secretary LaMont said this is one of the best programs of three weeks at the experiment

One Juror Still Needed in Sirhan Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The minute hitch, however, postponed completion of the panel until today at the earliest. The defense accepts the jury as now constituted. Since the prosecution made a statement Friday, it seemed as if a jury had been found to decide on Sirhan's guilt and whether the diminutive Jordanian should die in the gas chamber for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June 5.

However, there was one difference between Friday's jury and Tuesday's jury. Miss Helen Woodworth, a retired legal secretary, had been excused from the jury just before Cooper's announcement, on grounds of fragile health.

She was tentatively replaced in the jury box by Mrs. Geraldine Scherer, a retired antique shop operator from Whittier.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Lynn Compton, the chief of the prosecution team, pointed out that this made it a different jury, and withdrew the acceptance he had given Friday.

NEW HAIRSTYLE — Veronica Lake, the famous film star of the 1940's shows off her latest and quite accidental hairstyle. Miss Lake, who is in London to promote her autobiography and make television appearances, told news-men that a gas stove exploded in her face about six months ago and singed off practically all her famous locks. Her hair has now grown to a length of about three inches. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Ulster Man Re-Arrested

TOWN OF ULSTER — Ronald W. Van Steenburgh, 32 of Lawrenceville Street, entered a guilty plea Tuesday afternoon to a misdemeanor on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm, a .38 revolver, when arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Van Steenburgh was sentenced to a one-year jail term with a conditional discharge (probation). Arresting officers were County Investigator Harold T. Bowers and BCI Senior Investigator Charles Teelon of the state police.

Upon Van Steenburgh's release, later in the day, he was again arrested by the investigators and charged with criminal mischief, third degree and petit larceny. At arraignment before Town of Kingston Justice Robert A. Ferrigan, he entered a guilty plea and was committed to county jail for five days.

Van Steenburgh reportedly went to his mother's home and cut her telephone wire and took her purse containing about $100. Most of the money was recovered, Bowers and Teelon said.

Has IBM spoiled the computer business for others?

BELIEVE some of the things you hear about the computer industry today and you might conclude that IBM has sapped the health of the industry and monopolized it.

As some would have you see it, the industry has been stifled in its growth. They would have you believe that competition has been inhibited, that the doors have been closed to newcomers to the industry, that no one other than IBM can make money in it, that innovation is sluggish, that technological advancement in the industry has been held back.

This would indeed be dangerous—if the charges were true. The facts tell another story. They make it clear that the computer industry—one of the fastest growing in the United States—is one of the nation's healthiest, most open-ended, competitive industries, one of the most innovative and progressive. They make it clear that IBM has not hindered the growth of competition in the industry.

Some hang their charges of "monopoly power" on what they call IBM's excessive share of the market. That market share is substantial; it is the product of IBM's emphasis on excellence in all the years it has been in the business. It is the product of customer response to the investments we have made, and to the quality of our people, our products, our service.

But monopoly power is not a numbers game based merely on what has occurred in a market in the past. Rather, common characteristics of monopoly, as the economists define it, exist when newcomers are unable to break into an industry, when competition is suppressed, when innovation is throttled, when there is no price competition, when the interests of the customer are subordinated to those who monopolize the industry.

These are hardly the characteristics of the computer industry that is alleged to be a "monopoly" of IBM. But let the facts of the industry speak for themselves. They tell it better than we could.

Limited opportunities for growth?

Let's look at the record

The multi-billion dollar computer industry, just a raw idea 20 years ago, today has attracted more than 60 manufacturers of systems, another 4,000 companies dealing in related equipment, support and services.

Between 1960 and 1968, computer installations increased twelvefold, from 5,000 to over 60,000. During that period, some 40 or more newcomers to the industry have invested hundreds of millions of dollars and are competing successfully in the manufacture of computers. There are more than twice as many manufacturers today as there were in 1960.

A number of today's major manufacturers did not enter the market until after the arrival of second generation, transistorized equipment in the 1950's. They were able to do this because they brought innovation, improved performance and lower prices.

Increasing competition, as still more companies enter the industry, has brought with it enormous improvements in machine capacity and speed, sharp reductions in cost and a rapid growth in applications. All help to demonstrate the extraordinary vitality of an industry which has attracted scores of entrepreneurs.

No room for competition?

Let's look at the record

The industry has attracted large companies, small companies, established companies, new companies—and the numbers are increasing. Many have scored spectacular successes, some in just a few years. It is an industry that favors not size, but innovation. A company makes it on new ideas.

The manufacture of computers has attracted three kinds of companies: (1) those with a demonstrated competence in electronics, (2) those who foresaw computers as a natural extension of their lines of business machines, and (3) inventors who undertook to form new companies to exploit their new ideas.

Among those with competence in electronics are blue-chip competitors like RCA, GE, and Honeywell.

In addition, leaders in other industries are crossing over into the computer industry, as they gain experience and competence in computer technology. One example is the aerospace industry. Companies like Lockheed and McDonnell-Douglas have seen and seized the opportunity computers offer them to broaden their sales base. They have now successfully entered the data processing industry.

Among the business machines manufacturers are Burroughs, NCR, Sperry Rand and IBM.

Among the organizers of new companies are Scientific Data Systems, Digital Equipment Corporation, and Control Data Corporation.

More companies from many different industries can be expected to continue crossing over into the computer industry. Few other industries face so much powerful existing competition and so much potential new competition.

Computer manufacturing is highly competitive, but producers take heart in predictions of 20 percent per year growth for the industry and are making plans for expansion. Increasing sales are commonplace for oldtimers and newcomers alike.

Rapid growth in the use of peripheral equipment has brought 60 or more peripheral manufacturers into direct competition with computer manufacturers who produce their own. This additional competition has sped the pace of technological advancement and kept the cost of computation moving downward.

Difficult to make a go of it in other segments of the computer industry?

Let's look at the record

With 60,000 computer installations, manufacturers have made possible the formation of hundreds of new enterprises in computer support services, programming, and leasing. Many have been outstandingly successful. Some have parlayed modest beginnings into companies valued at hundreds of millions in only a few years. And add to these entrepreneurial newcomers the tens of thousands of industry suppliers from nearly every state in the Union—the great majority of them small business enterprises. Growth in computer manufacture has led to a huge array of separate data processing services.

There are more than 700 independent service bureaus. Service bureau sales for 1968 were estimated at $765 million. The outlook is for sales of $1 billion in 1970 or 1971.

More than 70 firms offer time-sharing on central computers. Sales for 1968 were estimated at $100 million. Some foresee a ninefold increase by 1972.

Many hundreds of software houses have entered the industry. They range from two-man shops to relatively large organizations. A founder of one such firm built a part-time beginning into a full-time business valued by investors at over $600 million in less than five years.

Computer leasing companies are one of the newest and fastest growing factors in the industry today. In 1961, there were a handful of such companies. Today more than 100 companies are competing in this market; they own in excess of $1 billion worth of computer equipment. The business has spawned a bumper crop of new millionaires.

Slow on innovation? Excessively high on costs?

Let's look at the record

Already the computer has passed through three technological revolutions—vacuum tubes, transistors, and integrated circuitry. It has been made steadily cheaper to use, steadily easier to use and many times more versatile in the ways it can be used. There has been a thousandfold reduction in computing costs and these economies have been passed on to users. U.S. computing power has been doubling every year since 1955.

Innovation is what produces results for manufacturers in the computer industry, and, much of the industry's competitive thrust is centered in its research and development activity. From this has come an unparalleled series of technological breakthroughs and an extraordinary stream of new end products and applications. These developments have come from every corner of the industry and, through patent licensing, are widely available.

IBM—A tough competitor but a fair one.

IBM is a company which has grown from $400 million in gross revenue in 1953 when we delivered our first computer to $5.3 billion in 1967. We've grown by sticking to our business, by doing it the best way we know how, fairly, honestly, in free and open competition, not through mergers, stock swaps and acquisitions.

In the course of this growth, IBM has been especially sensitive to the possibility of anti-trust allegations. In 1952, the Justice Department had brought suit against IBM, alleging that it had monopolized U.S. domestic and foreign commerce in the tabulating machine business. The government asked the court to order IBM, among other things, to divest itself of a portion of its tabulating card business; to divest itself of service bureaus and to provide for the purchase, as well as the rental of computers.

IBM, in its answer, denied the allegations of the complaint. After lengthy negotiations, we acceded to a Consent Decree without trial. Under this procedure, no determinations were made as to guilt or wrongdoing, but IBM agreed to take various actions and adopt a specific set of business procedures.

We have leaned over backwards to avoid giving our competitors cause for complaint. We have specified in considerable detail a code of fair business conduct for our people.

To the best of our ability, we have been faithful to our business conduct code. But we have retained the right to work hard at our business. For we do not believe that size alone denies a company the right to compete to the best of its ability in a free and open market.

We know it is free and open, we know it is competitive, because we are growing less rapidly than many of our competitors. We are losing business to them.

IBM—An amalgam of diverse skills dedicated to customer service.

The key to IBM's success and, we believe, to the success of the data processing industry is dedication to the needs of its customers who find so many uses for equipment.

To satisfy those needs, to innovate and develop new uses, a company like IBM must integrate the broad range of highly specialized skills that are required to produce a data processing system and put it to useful work. The design, development, manufacture, programming, installation, and servicing of an information handling system is a complex matter. Some have called it the most intricate of all management feats today.

IBM certainly does not have a corner on the required skills, ideas or people who can put effective computing systems together. Our competitors have proved that they do a good job of this, too. However, IBM will continue to try to do a better job than they do. That's what competition is about.

We are confident that we will be able to pursue success in the future, as we have in the past, by giving our customers the best service and best products we can offer. We will make every contribution we can to the success and growth of the entire computer industry. The industry will continue to find new and better ways to help people solve problems with computers. And that will benefit the entire nation.

LeFever Board Chairman At Kingston Savings

The Board of Trustees of the Kingston Savings Bank elected Lloyl R. LeFever its chairman and promoted other officers at the annual meeting Monday night.

LeFever has been active in several capacities at the bank since 1929, when he became a member of the board of trustees. He has been president since 1960.

Elected president and chief executive officer of the bank was Clifford A. Henze, who had been executive vice president and secretary. Joseph F. Brady, who was treasurer, was elected to the post of executive vice president and treasurer. Mrs. Helen E. Wood, who was administrative assistant, was elected to the office of secretary.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., a trustee since 1933, was elevated from second to first vice president, an office that had been held by the late Alexander B. Shufeldt. Elected second vice president was Charles L. Arnold, deputy director of Civil Defense for Ulster County and a member of Kingston Savings Bank's board of trustees since 1943.

Board Member in '29
The new board chairman, LeFever, first became a member of the board of trustees in 1929, when George Burgevin was president and Virgil Van Wageningen was the bank's attorney. In 1933, LeFever was appointed attorney for the bank, and in 1935 he was elected a member of its finance committee. On January 13, 1939, he became vice president. He was elected president in 1960, succeeding the late Holt N. Winfield. Throughout this period he maintained his private law practice as well as the position of the bank's attorney.

When LeFever first became a member of the board of trustees in 1929, Kingston Savings Bank's total assets were $7,647,800. When he became president in 1960, total assets were $31,739,229. In the eight years since then, KSB's assets have more than doubled, totaling $67,460,617 as of Dec. 31, 1968.

During Lloyl LeFever's term as president, Kingston Savings Bank became the first mutual savings bank in Ulster County to establish a branch office — the Bonanza office on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster, which opened June 29, 1968. In 1961 the bank's Wall Street office was completely reconstructed, and was opened to the public in April. Extensive remodeling of the main lobby was completed in 1968. Also during his tenure, the latest electronic and computerized record-keeping systems were installed.

A native of Rosendale, Lloyl LeFever graduated from Kingston High School and Albany Law School. He has practiced law in Kingston since 1926. He resides at Richmond Park with his wife, the former Elizabeth Maxon. They have a son, John, a teacher at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School, and a daughter, Jane, an immunologist in Denver, Colo.

LeFever is a member and past president of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston, a member of the Holland Society of New York, the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz, Ulster County Historical Society, Kingston Lodge 10 F. and A.M., Ulster County Bar Association and the American Bar Association. He also serves on the board of trustees of the YMCA, the board of directors of the Home for the Aged, and the board of directors of the Wiltwyck Country Club.

Joined As Treasurer
Clifford A. Henze, the new president, joined Kingston Savings Bank Jan. 1, 1959, as treasurer, succeeding the late Harry Ensign. He advanced through several positions to become executive vice president and secretary, and he was also elected to the board of trustees on Jan. 17, 1966. Prior to coming to Kingston, he was vice president of the Bank of Passaic and Clifton in Passaic, N. J.

Henze has his BCS degree in banking and finance from New York University School of Commerce, is a graduate of the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, and a graduate of the Executive Management School conducted by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks at Amherst College, completing his work there in 1967. He is a member of the New Services Committee of the Savings Banks Association of New York State.

Henze is a member of the board of directors and past president of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America; chairman of the Planning Committee of the Ulster County Community Chest, treasurer of the Perrine's Bridge Committee, member of board of directors of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, board of directors of the Kiwanis Club, member of Kingston Area Financial Council, was first president of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, and is a former president of the Citizen's Survey Committee and former member of the board of directors of the YMCA. He resides in Hurley with his wife, Isabel. They have two sons, Russell and John.

Retains Title
Joseph F. Brady, the new executive vice president, joined the bank staff in March, 1959, advancing through several executive positions to the post of treasurer, to which he was elected early in 1965 and which title he retains along with the executive vice presidency. He was elected to the board of trustees in June, 1966.

Brady has his BBA degree from St. John's University School of Commerce, and is a graduate of the Graduate School of Savings Banking conducted by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks at Brown University. He is also a graduate of the NAMS's Executive Management School at the University of Massachusetts, completing that course in 1968.

He served with the U.S. Navy in World War II. After early employment at the Corn Exchange Trust Company and Irving Trust Company in New York, he was employed as bank examiner by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, examining banks in New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Puerto Rico. He later held a similar position with the State of New York Banking department.

Different Youth With Same Name

RED HOOK — Having the same name and town address as another older youth arrested earlier this week for alleged car theft can be tough on a young 14-year-old boy.

In this case, the young man, Richard John Gordon, son of Frank and Elizabeth Gordon, Linden Avenue Extension, Red Hook, has been the subject of much taunting by other children ever since area news media carried a story Monday telling of the arrest of another Richard Gordon, 16, of Red Hook.

The parents called The Freeman today to ask that the matter be clarified in order to stem the tide of unkind words, telephone calls and even the additional taunting of Richard's younger brother and sister.

The other young man arrested and turned over to Rhinebeck state police Sunday was Richard Gordon of Kerley Corners Road, Red Hook. He is charged, along with Calvin Rickman, 16, also of Red Hook, with unlawful use of a motor vehicle, which they took Sunday night from a Rhinebeck garage.

Putting you first, keeps us first. '69 Impala Custom Coupe

We've found a way to make Chevrolets an even better buy than other cars in their field.

And out of their field. We've been able to drop the price of several extras. Not cat-and-dog extras, but those you'd like to have.

An automatic transmission costs you less, whether it's Powerglide or our 3-speed Turbo Hydramatic.

The cost of adding a larger V8 is less. The cost of new advanced-design power disc brakes has been cut practically in half. And so has the cost of head restraints, which are now figured into the base price of the car as standard equipment.

So for the '69 Impala shown above with a big 300-hp V8, Turbo Hydra-matic, power disc brakes, whitewall tires and wheel covers, the price is $101.00* less than it was in 1968.

(Those whitewalls even cost you a little less than they did last year. And the 300-hp V8 costs $40 less than it used to cost to add a V8 with only 275 hp.)

In '69 you get a better ride with Impala, too. A better Astro Ventilation system. Solid steel "guard rails" built into the door. A lock for the ignition, steering wheel and shift lever, offered only by Chevrolet in its field.

The value goes up. The price comes down.

You know, if we were the competition, we'd never show up for the Showdown.

*Based on manufacturer's suggested retail prices, including federal excise tax and suggested dealer new car preparation charge.

Value Showdown: $101.00 less than last year's Impala with comparable equipment.

Disaster Areas
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Small Business Administration has designated San Luis Obispo County and adjacent areas in California as federal disaster areas because of flood damage Jan. 19. The designation makes the area eligible for low cost loans for rebuilding.

Baptists Elect New Officers

Albert O. Sonnenberg was elected moderator of First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue at Broadway during the recent annual meeting.

Others elected were: Deacons — Albert Goodwin, Elston North Jr., Sherwood Lasher and Irwin J. Thomas. Deaconesses — Mrs. Idella Van Gasbeck, Mrs. Marie Steeger and Mrs. Eleanor Murphy.

Also, Mrs. Martha Shultis, Mrs. Ruth Weiner, J. William Arensman, board of Christian Education. Mrs. Mignon Elliott, Mrs. Sarah MacDonald, board of missions.

Trustees — Eric Blackwell, Lewis Richardson, Norman H. Bowen and Donald Boomhower. Mrs. Katherine Van Allen was reelected financial secretary; Stanley Cable, benevolence treasurer and Miss Marie Leahy, clerk.

Pulpit committee members named to arrange for a successor to the Rev. James A. Braker were Edwin DeHoff, Albert Goodwin, J. William Arensman, Norman H. Bowen, Robert McGarragh, Miss Marie Leahy and Mrs. Harry Steeger. The Rev. Mr. Braker will end his local ministry at the end of February and will take up a pastorate in Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Sherwood Lasher, outgoing moderator, reported that on the basis of increased pledges, it was possible to adopt the largest budgets in the history of the church, both for local and missionary work. Membership increases have been steady with the largest increase of new members recorded during 1968. He also pointed out that the trustees have indicated plans for redecoration of the sanctuary during 1969 as well as additional repairs and improvements to the church properties.

Constables Reelect Lang President

Officers and directors were elected at Tuesday's meeting of the Ulster County Constable's Association held at the County Office Building.

Reelected were: President, Walter J. Lang; vice president, Donald Crespinio; chief, Judd DuMont.

Reelected to the board of directors were chairman, Philip Sinagra, Frank Neri Jr., and Norman Caunitz.

Elected to the board of directors were Clarence Bowman, Stanley Lawrence and Donald Graham.

Elected officers include: Secretary, Grace Cosman; assistant secretary, Helen Pascale and treasurer, Mary Stokes.

Other elected officers include captain, Joseph Feraca, Joseph McNierney, William Kessler and Thomas Smith.

Entertainment committee: Re-elected chairman, Donald Crespinio, Frank Neri Jr. Elected, John Mangenello.

Joseph Feraca, police sergeant, Town of Esopus was named to be in charge of publicity.

All constables in the county are invited to attend a special meeting Thursday night at which members of the FBI will serve as lecturers for a police training program. The session will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. at the County Office Building.

The meeting marks the first of a number of training sessions between now and May 1 which are being held for members of the Ulster County Constable's Association.

Man Granted Adjournment
ELLENVILLE — Robert Lee Reid, 36, of 25 Chapel Street, received another delay in his case on charges of second degree assault and public intoxication following a New Year's Eve incident in a local tavern.

He was scheduled to face Village Justice Ronald Elias Tuesday night, but was given an indefinite adjournment when the justice was called out of town. Reid is free on $210 bail.

He was arraigned New Year's morning and was charged with the stabbing of an Ellenville man, Allen Mansfield, during a quarrel the night before. Mansfield was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital and released after seven stitches were used to close two wounds on the back of his head.

Cooperation Lauded by FBI
Assistant Director in charge John F. Malone of the FBI in New York City commenting on arrest of Herman William Love, 31, in the Bronx, Monday afternoon, personally lauded Poughkeepsie Town Police Chief Charles Schade, Chief John L. Martin Jr., of the Poughkeepsie city police force, Dutchess Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan, and New York State Police of Troop K working under Capt. Richard E. Boland for the outstanding cooperation and teamwork in the investigation.

Special Agent Jack Lupton of the Kingston FBI office, highly praised the cooperation of Michael Bonney of Ellenville, and the Ellenville police department for their assistance during the investigation that led to Love's apprehension.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened irregularly higher today in moderate trading.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.18 per cent on 317 issues crossing the tape. There were 132 advances and 96 declines.

Autos were mixed. Steels eased, oils and electronics moved in both directions. Chrysler added 1/4 among the motors, but Ford gave up 1/4. U.S. Steel lost 1/4. Bethlehem 1/4.

Mobil picked up 1/4 in the oils while Pennzoil gained 1/4. In the electronics, Westinghouse rose 1/4 as did Sperry Rand. IBM added 1/4. General Electric dipped 1/4.

Du Pont fell 1/4 in the chemicals, with Allied Chemical down 1/4.

City GOP Club Sets Meeting For Jan. 27th

The Kingston City Republican Club will hold its first annual dinner meeting Monday, Jan. 27 at Johnny's By Pass Tavern on the East Chester Street By-Pass. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p. m. with the business meeting to follow.

The newly elected club officers, President Richard Burns, Vice President Victor Locke, Secretary Angeline Carputo and Treasurer, Ethel Lowe, will preside at the business meeting.

Topics to be covered will be fund-raising projects for the coming year, speakers and programs for future meetings, more involvement in community affairs as well as politics and the appointment of new committee chairmen for 1969.

Those who may wish to attend should contact one of the club officers before Saturday.

Never on Sunday

(AP) — Six days may you play rugby but the seventh is for rest, says "Kerkbode," published by South Africa's powerful Dutch Reformed Church.

In its latest issue, the magazine noted with disapproval that the South African Rugby Board had allowed the touring British Lions team to travel from one match venue to another on a Sunday, though it expressed appreciation for the board's firm stand against the playing of rugby on Sundays.

Term Seeger Concert Tremendous Success

The folk concert staged last night at the Municipal Auditorium for the joint benefit of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration and the Ulster Coffee House has been termed "a tremendous success."

Approximately 1,100 persons attended the concert which featured Pete Seeger, internationally known folk singer, and Babatunde Olatunji with his troupe of African dancers. In addition to the balanced program provided by the headliners, local talent performed during the intermission. Sharing the stage were Rusty Madden and Hermine Keyser of Kingston; Billy Faier of Woodstock and Tom Winslow of New Baltimore.

Savings and Loan Reelects Ronder President

President Alfred D. Ronder, Secretary Sam Scudder and Treasurer Edward M. Huben, were reelected to their respective offices at the annual meeting of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston recently.

At a meeting of the stockholders, directors Albert C. Flanagan, N. Jansen Fowler, Sam Scudder and Edward M. Huben were also reelected for a three-year term.

Ronder announced that the following officers were appointed by the board of directors at the annual meeting: H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president and managing officer; William R. Stall, assistant vice president; H. Edward Carter, assistant secretary; Edward R. Dunn, assistant treasurer; Virginia K. Baltz, manager; Ulster Office; Thomas R. Beckert, manager; Saugerties Office; Henry V. Fallerman, manager; Highland Office; Guy Seligman, mortgage officer; Henry J. Jordan, auditor.

In addition, Mabel G. MacAvery and Gina Linehan were appointed administrative assistants; Joan Goff, head teller at the main office on Wall Street; N. Jansen Fowler was appointed attorney for the association and Schirmer and Carnright, associate attorneys at the Saugerties Office and Stewart Schantz, associate attorney at the Highland Office.

Enjoyed Successful Year

Ronder reported that the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston had enjoyed a very successful year in 1968.

H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president, submitted the annual report to the shareholders at the meeting. Darrow called attention to the new high in savings balances for the year ending 1968 amounting to $31,704,000.00 and indicated that the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston has paid the saving and investing members nearly $1.5 million dollars in dividends in 1968.

"This is the largest ever distributed by the Association in one year and over ten per cent higher than that of the previous year," he said. In addition, Darrow indicated that the Savings and Loan had its largest year in investment in mortgages during 1968 having loaned over $5 million dollars for 345 loans made in 1968 compared with less than $3 million made in 1967. Of this, $1.2 million was to finance the purchase or improvements of existing homes. Total mortgages now held by the Savings and Loan represent over 3,150 home owners.

Reports Changes

Darrow also reported that the board of directors made the following changes during 1968:

Thomas Beckert being appointed manager of Saugerties office; Miss Joan Goff appointed head teller at the main office. The change in interest rates during the past year and uncertainty of interest rates to be expected on mortgages during the coming year were also discussed in Darrow's report.

The recent changes in the Federal Reserve dividend rate and the changes by the commercial banks in the prime rate going up to a record seven per cent indicates that the banking system is slowly but definitely feeling added restraint.

Darrow predicted the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston would be able to supply sufficient funds to take care of local mortgage demand in the coming year due to its liquidity and the repayments on existing mortgages.

Montgomery Ward Promotes Mountford to New Position

Announcement has been made by Montgomery Ward of the promotion of David W. Mountford, local store manager, to the management of one of the largest and most modern metropolitan stores, Mountford will assume his new position on Feb. 1 as manager of the Hillcrest Heights store, in the Iverson Shopping Mall in the suburbs of Washington, D. C.

During the past three years, since his arrival in the Kingston area, Mountford and his wife Dee, have been extremely active in local church, civic and social activities. He is presently a director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Kingston Lions Club, a member of the U.S. Postal Department Mail Users Council, a Vestryman at St. John's Episcopal Church and a member of the Wiltwyck Country Club.

In the fall of 1966 Mountford founded the Young American Award Program here in the Mid-Hudson Valley. During the past years many students have benefited from the recognition which this program has brought to them. He was tendered a fond farewell by the members of the programs panel of judges at their last monthly awards dinner.

Ferroxcube Exec Invited As Panel Member

HARRY N. ASHBY

SAUGERTIES—Harry N. Ashby, Director of Administration for Ferroxcube Corporation, has been named to serve on the Policies Panel of the Bureau of National Affairs in Washington, D. C. Every two years, the Bureau invites 200 top executives from all types of companies in all parts of the country to serve. The Bureau uses these executives to obtain their advice and experience on current business practices and new ideas. Ashby will serve on the Panel for the period 1969 and 1970.

Ashby joined Ferroxcube in his present capacity in 1966. Prior to his present association he served Curtis-Wright Corporation and International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation in various management positions. He and his family reside in Woodstock.

70 Are Held After Upstate Drug Raids

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — More than 70 persons were held Tuesday night in county jails in the Utica - Syracuse - Rome area on charges ranging from the sale of narcotics, a felony, to misdemeanor drug possession to loitering for the purpose of using narcotics.

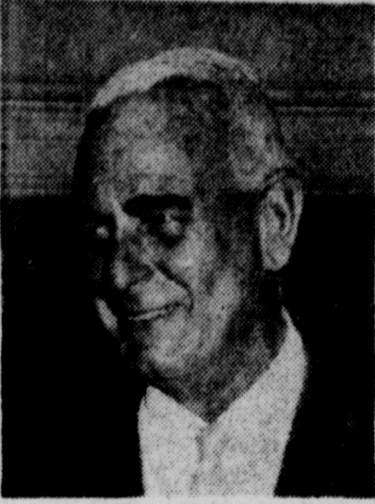

The youths — including juveniles — were apprehended in pre-dawn raids Tuesday over a three-county area.

Among those arrested were a 32-year-old man, a handful in their late 20s, an orphanage teacher, sons of lawyers and doctors, a state hospital psychologist, a volunteer fireman and — accidentally — a police stool pigeon. The majority were between 17 and 21 years old.

Most of those arrested, police said, were involved in "pushing" — selling — narcotics in high schools and colleges in the area of the raids. More arrests were predicted today on the basis of information received during Tuesday's interrogations and the preceding months of investigations.

Mountford has also actively supported a Little League team and also a team in the Kingston Bowling Association. He attended the University of Georgia and is a very ardent football fan. Prior to joining Montgomery Ward he was vice president of Grace and Robinson, a large retail organization with stores throughout the country.

Kingston High School will lose one of its outstanding students when the Mountfords leave this area. Their daughter Becky, who is a junior at the high school, has been consistently among the top two or three students in her class. The Mountfords also have a son, David Jr., who is a student at the Henry Elison Elementary School.

Fire School on Arson in Woodstock

Woodstock Fire Company 4, Zena, held its first meeting of the new year recently with President Christopher Donoghue presiding. Praising the job accomplished by last year's officers, he called for committee reports and noted that the fire company is considering an expansion of the building. The house and grounds committee was asked to look into the possible cost of such a move.

Firemen Test Water Curtain

Experiments with a water curtain, a device to shield a second structure from a burning building by means of a "wall of water," was tested by Woodstock Fire Company 3, Lake Hill at a regular fire drill Sunday. Pressure well in excess of 100 pounds was utilized from the company's pumper in testing the water curtain, "and the results were excellent," stated Fire Captain Phillips Eighmey. The device was made from a 2½ inch hose coupling by Alfred Ostrander, president of the fire company. When sufficient water pressure is applied to the water curtain, a screen of water arises between two buildings, one of which is involved in fire. This screen or curtain protects one structure from the heat of the other.

High School Exam Schedule

Mid-year examinations began today at Onteora Central High School and will be completed on Friday, Jan. 24. Students should be in attendance for all three days and should not request to leave school early on any of the examination days.

Monday, Jan. 27 is a Regents Day and only students who are scheduled for a Regents examination should report to school on this day. This applies only to the students in grades 7 to 12 at the Onteora Central High School.

Report cards for the second quarter will be distributed during the second week in February.

Truth

"Truth" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday at the First Church Christ Scientist, 85 Tinker Street, Woodstock. Services will begin at 11 a.m.

Kripplebush

KRIPPLEBUSH — A group of 25 MYF members and four advisors from the United Methodist Church of Lake Ronkonkoma were guests at the Sunday services last week at the United Methodist Church of Kripplebush.

Fifty-one persons attended the covered dish luncheon Sunday at the firehall. Mrs. Leila Bhagwat of Bombay, India, gave a talk on the needs and mission work in India.

The WSCS meeting will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 3 and will be the annual Pledge Service. The meeting will be instead of the regular meeting which would have been held Jan. 27.

France still has a horse population of about two million, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Jaycee Guest Night Slated

In observance of Jaycee Week, Jan. 19-25, the Woodstock Jaycees are holding their annual guest night tonight at Deanie's Restaurant in Woodstock. Each member is requested to bring a guest to the meeting. This guest may be a friend, relative, co-worker or perhaps a prospective member. The purpose is to acquaint the public with the work that goes on in the Jaycees.

Guest night will consist of a general membership meeting, as well as time for getting acquainted and having refreshments. Guest speaker for the evening will be Harold Card of Success Motivation Institute. Card is a past president of the Middletown Jaycees and will speak on leadership training. All interested citizens are invited to the meeting which will begin at 8 p.m.

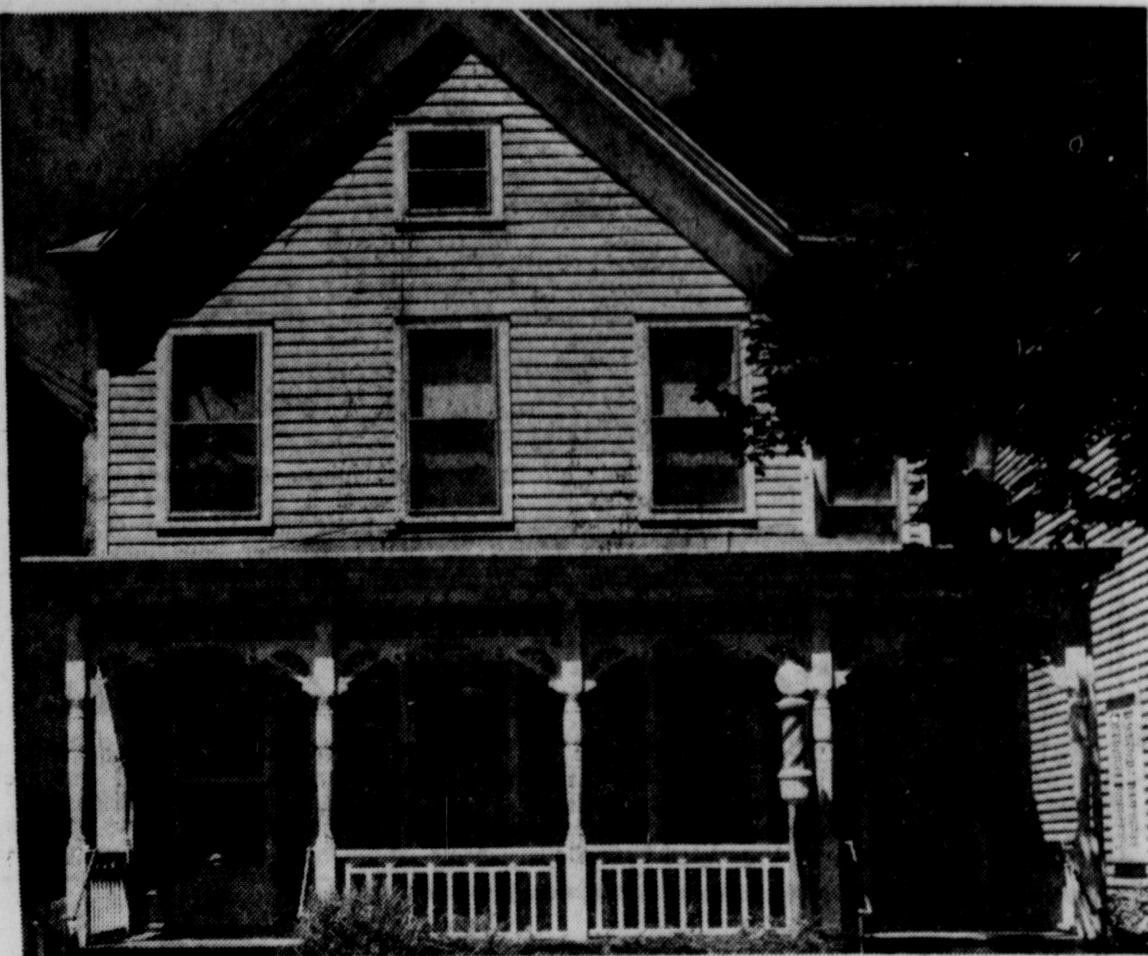

Woodstock News

Onteora WHITA Meeting Friday

Fred G. Freitag, member of the board of directors of WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association) has announced a meeting of all WHITA members and persons residing in the Onteora area, Friday, 8 p.m. at Deanie's Restaurant, Woodstock.

Freitag stated that members of the Woodstock Town Board as well as the Supervisor Milton Houst and County Legislator William West have been invited to attend. In addition Harry M. Thayer, also on the WHITA board, is expected to make an appearance.

In urging the 55 Onteora WHITA members and the public to attend, Freitag stressed that the Onteora area is a significant one in view of the fact that it is comprised of 400 square miles and has the service of 27 post offices.

Educational Seminar Given by Secretaries

On Monday, Jan. 20, the Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) presented a second dinner event. Entitled, "What Makes Us Tick?" the program was sponsored by the Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International). The program was devoted to the future secretary's role in the business world and to actual requirements entering the business world and to actual requirements entering the business world and to actual requirements entering the business world.

Not only and opportunities, but a portion of the attitude which must be developed to insure success. In the addition, each attendee was able to make a self-appraisal of her own abilities and to make a self-appraisal of her own abilities and to make a self-appraisal of her own abilities.

direction of Miss Lillian M. Styles, a past president of the local chapter, currently serving as its education chairman. Miss Styles is secretary to Dr. William B. Ittner III, manager of general engineering, at the local IBM Systems Development Division's Laboratory and is a member of the Business Advisory Council of Ulster County Community College.

Speakers during the seminar were Jack C. Newkirk, associate director of admissions at the State University College of New Paltz, who delivered the keynote address, "For Me—A Thoroughly Modern Secretary," George D. Craigmile, Controller, IBM Systems Development Division's Kingston Laboratory, who discussed the proper utilization of time and its meaning to both the employer and employee; Mrs. Beatrice Edwards, secretary to the vice president of manufacturing of Rotron Inc., who discussed duties of the executive secretary which are normally not associated with office functions, and Mrs. Gloria Starling, secretary to the principal of the Rondout Valley High School, who spoke to the future secretaries.

The large attendance included not only area secretaries but a contingent of students and faculty from high schools such as the Ontario Central and from Ulster County Community College as well as members of management from local firms.

As part of their efforts to assist future secretaries, the local Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) presented volumes of "Secretaries on the Spot" to Mrs. Joan Beckwith, Assistant Professor, Division of Business, Ulster County Community College, for use by the secretarial students.

"Secretaries on the Spot" is a special case study method volume emphasizing the importance of effective interpersonal relations for those secretaries who wish to become a contributing member of the management team. Step-by-step procedures are utilized to help the professionally minded secretary and student gain a working knowledge of the case method of study. The volume is a collection of actual secretarial problems with proposed solutions. The material is of value to experienced secretaries who wish to refine their human relations skills and to students who wish to learn an effective method for analyzing and solving "people caused" problems.

Top Theatrical Event Is Coming

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

A personal visit with theatrical impresario Dick Weaver brings the best news of the society season. Dolly Gallagher Levi is going to be married to Horace Vandergelder on the stage of the Community Theatre on Tuesday, Feb. 4. The event will take place sharply at 8:30 p. m.

Translated into other terms, "Hello Dolly!" is coming to town. Dolly will be the screen and television's glamour girl, Yvonne de Carlo. She is the wily matchmaker who winds up getting her man in the musicalization of Thornton Wilder's famous play, "The Matchmaker," made 10,000 times more famous by the talent combination which musicalized it and sent it swirling around the world. It is still on Broadway, now beginning its sixth year, and there have been versions in Swedish, Japanese, French, Hebrew and a dozen other foreign tongues.

When the caravan sweeps into Kingston on February 4 and stops at the stage door of the Community Theatre more than 40 actors and musicians will be alongside Miss de Carlo. It is one of the biggest traveling shows ever sent out. When Dolly Levi gets married, she wants everyone to know it.

Don de Leo is the lucky man. He plays a hard to get skinflint, grunting and roaring his way around stage. But the richer he gets, the more Dolly thinks she deserves him more than the girl she originally had in mind for him. That's how the story goes. If you are lucky enough to be inside the Community Theatre as the romance progresses, you'll find out how it all comes out.

"Hello, Dolly!" opened in New York on January 16, 1964, the successful culmination of a plan conceived by its producer, David Merrick. Directed and choreographed by Gower Champion, with music and lyrics by Jerry Herman and book by Michael Stewart, "Hello, Dolly!" won unanimous raves from the New York critics and immediately became one of the biggest musical hits in theatre history.

A command performance at the White House last January marked the beginning of its fifth year. It has just started its sixth year on Broadway.

Carol Channing was the original Dolly and remained in the New York production until August 1965 when she embarked on a lengthy tour. At that time she turned the show over to Ginger Rogers who for 18 months held forth on Broadway.

Miss Rogers in turn handed the crown over to Martha Raye. Another great star, Pearl Bailey, currently heads the cast at the St. James Theatre in New York.

"Hello, Dolly!" has provided smashing entertainment for millions of people. It has played just about every major city in America. At presidential invitation it was seen by our troops in Vietnam, Korea and Okinawa. The State Department sponsored an engagement in Japan. A London production opened in 1965 and is still running there, having won the London critics prize as the "best musical." Another production toured Australia and New Zealand. One opened in West Germany during the past winter. Scandinavian versions are running in Sweden and Finland. Rights have been sold to Holland, Brazil, Argentina, Czechoslovakia and Italy.

The "Hello, Dolly!" title song is now part of American music history. It was recorded by almost every popular singer including the legendary Louis Armstrong. Miss Channing sang it at the Inaugural Gala in Washington in January, 1965. So when you come to the Community Theatre on February 4, remember one thing — bring a little rice or confetti.

B'nai B'rith Women To Install Officers

Zephaniah Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, held its monthly board meeting on Thursday, Jan. 16, at the Jewish Community Center. Mrs. Harold Monashefsky, president, presided.

Mrs. Monashefsky announced that a nominating committee was appointed. It will present a slate of new officers at the February meeting. Those on the committee are: Mrs. Edwin Kallish, chairman, Miss Blanche Kirshenblum, Mrs. Mildred Flamm, Mrs. Harris Gally and Mrs. Harvey Kronick. Plans are being made for the installation of officers-paid-up membership dinner on April 23.

The Library program, which Zephaniah Chapter will undertake for the month of February, was discussed. Mrs. Stanley Plasker is chairman. Birthday cakes will be baked and sent to the Infirmary during February with Mrs. Leonard Kronick in charge. It was announced that the Cerebral Palsy Clinic needs used toys. Anyone wishing to donate toys should contact Mrs. Monashefsky.

The next regular meeting of the Chapter will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 22, at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center. The highlight of the meeting will be the installation of the following new members: the Mmes. Joseph Epstein, Jules Ewig, William Gould, Leonard Hershoff, Larry Jacobs, Stanley King, Massie Mehle, Leonard Moss, Stanley Rosenbaum, Fred Shaymow, Charles Slutsky, and Betty Wolte. Anyone desiring to become a member of Zephaniah Chapter is cordially invited to attend.

Helpful Hints

KEEPS ROLLERS IN
If your hairset is limp when you get up in the morning because most of your rollers have managed to fall out during the night, what you need is a beauty salon-type hair net — it's triangular-shaped, ties in the back and is large enough to cover even the biggest rollers.

FOR A SOFT SKIN
To keep skin on elbows and heels soft, rub moisturizing lotion on them before going to bed at night and before you step out into the cold every morning.

DON'T TEASE YOUR FALL
If you want the fall you wear to look as well as possible, there are a few steps to follow. First don't tease your fall. Second handle your fall with care and brush very gently with a wide bristled brush.

FOR A SPECIAL FLAIR
This is the age of the body shirt — tailored clean lines that give the wearer a classic look. Of course, as with an 'In' thing, body shirts sometimes lack that certain something to set you off from the crowd. To give yours a special flair, use rodeo ribbon to transform it into a western wow.

STUDY EARLY SETTLEMENT DAYS — Mrs. Krosner's third grade class at the West Hurley School has studied Kingston this year. They have just finished studying Old Kingston from the early settlement days in the 1600's. Old Kingston also included Old Hurley. The students are beginning to study New Kingston, its businesses and some of its problems. The class has made slides and tape presentations for the school and district. Preparing for the presentation are (l-r) Darryl Franks, Mrs. Krosner, Carol Coleman, Lori Light and Gregg Houseman. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I get through with my dust mop, I place the head of it in a plastic bag and leave the bag open at the top.

This not only prevents my treated mop from untreating itself, but for those who use oil on their mops, this method will keep their closet from becoming soiled.

Mopping Matilda

Now, aren't you tricky? And I love the idea of keeping the bag open at the top.

Remember combustion?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Everyday I like to watch two TV programs which take an hour. I spend this time doing whatever jobs I dislike the most — such as cleaning silver, straightening a drawer, mending and ironing.

I plunk myself right in front of my TV set and you'd be surprised how much less boring these tasks are when you are interested in your favorite programs.

A drawer a day adds up and before you know it all your dresser drawers are neat.

All my silver pieces are polished in one hour and I just wash and dry them when the program is over. I find that I am much more relaxed since I started this system.

Mrs. H. G.

Can I say "A drawer or chore a day keeps little white jackets and expensive tranquilizers away?" Fantabulous idea, you nousewife doll!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you'll put three or four drops of pure glycerin around the neck of a glass stopper that is stuck in a glass bottle—whether decanter or perfume—and let it stand a day or so, it will usually come soose!

Cora Root

Dear Heloise:

I use a plastic soda straw to push up and down in the stem of the coffee pot when it becomes clogged.

This unstops it immediately.

Mary Williams

Dear Heloise:

I keep a card of small, clear plastic, shirt-sized buttons handy. Then if a button is lost, I remove an original one from the tuck-in part of the shirt to replace it. Then sew on one of my plastic buttons where it doesn't show.

Lazy, huh? But it saves running around town trying to match some of these fancy

State Police Get Good Boost For Two Years

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Police fared better than other state employes in wage proposals unveiled on budget day by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor's office announced Tuesday that union negotiations for the State Police had accepted an offer of a $3.5-million, two-year contract that included a pay boost averaging 5½ per cent a year.

Rockefeller, in his budget message, proposed a salary increase of $62.6 million, or 4 per cent across the board, for the bulk of the state's 154,000 workers in the next fiscal year.

The latter proposal also would be subject to Rockefeller's recommendation that projected increases in state aid and services be cut back by five per cent to help balance the budget.

Budget Director T. Norman Hurd said that such a cutback would apply to the proposed State Police contract, which covers more than 2,000 troopers and officers up to the rank of major.

Rockefeller recommended that the state workers, including the State Police, get a total package increase of $73.2 million, including pay raises and other benefits.

The total also includes $5.2 million for the State University professional staff. The governor sought an additional $15 million for overtime, geographic and shift differentials, reallocations and reclassifications.

His general wage proposal drew quick protests from two unions.

"State employees . . . again have taken it on the chin from Gov. Rockefeller," said Theodore C. Wenzl, president of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Jerry Wurf, international president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, termed the proposal "inadequate." His union is represented in the state by Council 50.

The CSEA, in negotiations last year for 124,000 state workers, had asked for a pay increase of $1,200 across the board for a total of $148 million.

Talks between the CSEA and the state were broken off by the ruling Nov. 27 of the State Public Employment Relations Board. The board ordered the state workers to be represented by five bargaining units instead of one.

The State Police were represented by the Police Benevolent Association in contract negotiations with the state. The new two-year contract, subject to ratification of the policemen, includes provisions for holiday and overtime pay and improved retirement and other benefits.

Onteora to Keep Students in Glenford School

BOICEVILLE — Glenford students, who have been attending the Woodstock Elementary School for the past two years, will continue to attend, instead of being returned to the W. Hurley School.

The decision was made Monday by the Onteora Board of Education on recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harold Snyder.

Two years ago the board moved the students to Woodstock for a two-year period stating then that they would reconsider the matter at this time. Several parents indicated that they did not have a preference regarding the two schools but merely wished their children to become established in one and not be faced with additional changes in the future, according to school board spokesman Watson Goodrich.

The board accepted the resignation of a fellow member, Mrs. Caroline Hanks who is moving to California.

In other business tuition rates for non-resident students were established as follows: kindergarten, $371.01; grades 1-6, $829.18 and grades 7-12, $1,134.88.

The board also set up procedures to establish a safe driving practice course. A new state law, effective April 1, will require that all new drivers take a three-hour course operated by an established school. Classes will be held whenever there are ten enrollees. A five dollar fee will be charged.

Five staff resignations were received from Arlene Reilly, Joan Berardi, Norma Haner and Clinton Finch. The retirement resignation of Millard Bell who served the school system for 17 years was accepted with regret.

Patient Transferred

ELLENVILLE — Mrs. Elizabeth Kamp, of 16 Church Street, this village who has been a patient at the Ellenville Community Hospital the last several months, was transferred on Monday afternoon by Fatum's Ambulance Service to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Kamp was admitted to the Oakmont Rest Home in Pittsburgh. Her daughter is a resident of that city.

West Shokan

WEST SHOKAN — District Deputy James E. Platt and his staff of Phoenicia Lodge 154 recently installed elective and appointed officers at Shokan Lodge 491.

Following the business session District Deputy Platt and his staff and several home lodge members offered remarks to the occasion. A cordial welcome was extended for the Phoenicia homecoming installation Tuesday, Jan. 28. An oyster supper will be served.

Mrs. Anne Eckert returned home last week after an 11-day stay at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cruthers returned home after two weeks visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Robert Simon and family of Long Island. During their absence Harlowe McLean served as caretaker.

Orrie Lyons of the Department of Water Supply, now retired was among the Town of Olive callers in Kingston last week.

John Molloy Sr. is reported among many ill with the flu. Former Ulster County Sheriff Claude Bell is getting around again after his bout with the flu.

Dr. Avery Smith, Rosendale veterinarian recently completed his community inspection of the local dairy herds.

Ernest Beemer, Olivebridge postmaster is in Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Dorville Boice is serving as acting postmaster.

Bruce Brugher, Town of Ulster historian and teacher at Chambers School made a Saturday visit to his snowbound Schoolhouse Hill camp.

Mrs. Lester S. Davis was treated in Benedictine Hospital recently for injuries sustained in a fall.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, while on a weekend visit at Ledgerrock Estate hosted a family visitation including Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Longyear Jr., of Mexico City; Robert L. Longyear III of Emporia, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Chavez of New York City and Mrs. Ruth Rosengren, Squire Elwyn C. Davis and Ollie Burgher, all of this place.

Mrs. Frank Dunsinger, who was a patient at Kingston Hospital for several weeks is now being cared for at her home. On the occasion of her birthday, Jan. 10, she was remembered with a shower of greeting cards.

Harlowe McLean and neighbor Raymond C. Cruthers were visitors at Stone Ridge last week.

Schuyler Weidner and Frederic Snyder recently recorded a three hour historical interview with Squire Elwyn C. Davis at Jacky Brook Farm.

Albert S. Fox Sr., is on a prolonged visit with his daughter in New Jersey.

Following the January organizational meeting of Olive Town Board, Supervisor Lester S. Davis, now in his 13th year hosted his fellow members at a roast beef dinner at the hostelry of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larsen. Only two supervisors in Olive history have served six successive two-year terms. They are the late Jacob V. Merrill and former Sheriff Claude Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Neuser of High Point Road entertained their son Neuser of New Jersey who completed his service with the armed forces. Also attending were Fire Chief and Mrs. John Debilli of New Jersey and their daughter, Mrs. Betty Dennison of Haverstraw.

Bard Dean: Student Radical Is Bright, Well Adjusted

By SHANE CROSBY

If the nation's new President were a student on campus today, says the Dean of Bard College, "Nixon would have a beard and would be protesting" along with politically radical students such as Mark Rudd, president of the Student, for a Democratic Society (SDS).

Dean Carl M. Selinger made the remark Tuesday before Kingston businessmen as he attempted to give members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce an inside look at college life today.

He told the group that Rudd, the controversial former Columbia University student who is seeking to unionize men in the military, "possibly has a good deal more in common with Nixon than with hip students" who are seen by many outside as being campus leaders.

Rudd, the Dean said, is in a minority group of "political radicals" whose views are shared by the "majority, more or less," of other students. "He represents the 'political-social' activist section of campus life the way forward thinking politicians do in contemporary society," said Selinger.

Going into the "myths and realities" of "those radical college students," he told the businessmen that the "myths come from implication." One myth, he said, is that student radicals comprise "a small group of personally suspect misfits of sorts, malcontents." Citing college investigations, "the fact is, the active student radical is very bright and well adjusted, as compared with the student community."

Little in Common

Student radicals have "little in common, personally, with dropouts," Selinger said. The major complaint of campus life is "challenge," according to the Bard Dean. He said he was not surprised when students rioted at the Berkeley campus in California. It was "a failure to challenge their educationally."

The Berkeley students represented the top of the California educational program, and Selinger said "the program was not good enough for them." He added "there was no demand on them" from the point of view of meeting their needs educationally.

"Some schools make a serious effort" to meet the educational needs of students, the Dean said, contending that "Bard is one of those" that do make the effort.

He interjected that he was referring to the "white student community" and that the Negro student on campus is in effect, also fighting the same problems faced in the cities.

Despite what he called "over-zealousness" of many radicals on campus, their activities are an effort to show "repudiation of contemporary values and assumptions." He said it has "a deep traditional, political, even religious concept in American society."

Communication Is Problem

The major problem in dealing with campus activists, he contended is communication. Quoting a line from President Nixon's inaugural address, Selinger said "we have to listen to each other."

He said many people feel students have "no business in war and peace, or law and justice" speeches, but they should be heard. "They are men of good will," he said, and "we can profit from listening to one another."

Students may use terms that imply "imported ideas" such as Communism, said the Dean, but for public to feel there is Communist influence in the student radicals' platforms is only to fall for a "put on by the students." They use the names of current-day revolutionaries just for "shock value" and said students, "in substance, would reject them."

Poor Comparison

Student language in general, Selinger said, is "social rhetoric," and full of "hypocritical sayings." He said the language is a poor comparison to the real reasons for their actions on campus regarding sex and studies.

During questioning, he told the group that "mass media" had a major role to play in the communication gap between students and society. He said that to think that the SDS was the "grass roots" of the college society was untrue. Citing the Chicago riots during the Democratic Convention, Selinger said it was not as organized as the public thought. Most students went there for the "excitement" and "action" they were told they would find "through the mass media."

In the future, he said in answer to one question, students will be found to be producing more proposals than protests. Whether their proposals would be accepted, he said, "I don't know."

"They are getting tired" of protest, Selinger said, feeling the students would seek more productive means of campus activity.

Parents Die, Former Patient Being Sought

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —

A former mental patient and karate expert was sought by police today for questioning in connection with the deaths of his parents, who apparently were bludgeoned to death with a souvenir Indian tomahawk.

The battered bodies of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fitzsimmons were found in their suburban Eggertsville home Tuesday by neighbors who became concerned and entered the house after the couple had not been seen for several days.

Police said they were searching for George Fitzsimmons, 31, the dead couple's only son. Neighbors said he was single and added they believed he was unemployed.

He has worked as a lifeguard in a local YMCA they said. He was last seen at the home Jan. 12.

He was described by police as a weight lifter, karate expert and a former patient at Buffalo State Hospital, a mental institution.

George Fitzsimmons' automobile was found in the garage of the modest, grey-shingled home, but a car belonging to his father was missing, police reported. Neighbors said they asked a locksmith working in the neighborhood to open the door of the Fitzsimmons home because no one had seen the couple for about a week.

A mailman who was with the group that discovered the bodies said he became worried because Mrs. Fitzsimmons had not met him personally at the door each day, as was her custom.

The bodies were found side by side in a hallway near their bedroom.

The tomahawk and a bloody handkerchief were in a basement laundry chute.

The elder Fitzsimmons, 64, was a salesman and member of the board of directors for Hubbs & Howe Inc. of nearby Cheektowaga, a paper manufacturing company. Company officials said he had not appeared at work for several days.

Neighbors said Mrs. Fitzsimmons was a former schoolteacher who often helped neighborhood children with their schoolwork.

Historic Book

EXETER, England (AP) —

Dr. Robert Mortimer, Bishop of Exeter, has persuaded Sothebys to withdraw from auction a historic book bearing the signatures of West Country clergy who signed the oath of allegiance to King Charles II after England's civil war in the 17th century.

The document, which it was feared might have been split up and sold page by page, has been bought by the Diocese of Exeter for a nominal 100 pounds ($240). It will now go into the diocesan archives.

Average yield of maple sugar per tree is two or three pounds per season.

Sad Farewell

LONDON (AP) — Father Trevor Huddleston, who has just returned after 25 years in Africa to be Anglican Bishop of Stepney, says he is so sad at leaving Africa that he can hardly bear it. He handed over his diocese in Tanzania to an African bishop because "I felt the time had come to do this." But he adds: "I wanted to bury my bones there."

The works in a drawer.

10 tubeless solid-state mini-circuits keep Quasar Color TV out of the repair shop

Quasar TV has the "works in a drawer." Only the picture tube and the rectifier are not solid-state.

The rest of the works are tubeless solid-state mini-circuits designed to work without burning out.

If mini-circuit service is ever needed the drawer slides out, a replacement circuit is snapped in, and that's all there is to it. Quasar TV stays at home, not in the repair shop.

No other Color TV gives you both solid-state dependability and the stay-at-home serviceability of Quasar.

So when you're looking for Color TV, look at the one with solid-state "works in a drawer." You'll find it at your Motorola dealer.

FRIENDLY SHOOTOUT — State police and sheriff's deputies at the annual shootout by the two departments Sunday at the State Armory on Manor Avenue, finished in a tie of 1094 out of a possible 1200. The event has been held in recent years and the troopers took the trophy in 1968 by winning the match. BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann (second from right) congratulates Deputy Kitty Ann Samuels, coach of Sheriff William B. In Saugerties

Dog Ordinance Is Challenged

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES — A stipulation in the town's dog ordinance which requires a dog owner to have his dog inoculated for the prevention of rabies before a license can be issued is being challenged by a West Saugerties resident.

In accordance with the dog ordinance the town clerk's office has refused to issue dog licenses unless a certificate of rabies inoculation is presented with the application.

The clerk's office has been running into much resistance from dog owners seeking to renew dog licenses. Many of them insist that they do not want their dogs inoculated for rabies. One in particular has challenged the law.

Joseph Hommel wrote to the State Department of Agriculture and Markets Dog Licensing Bureau, and on the basis of a letter from that office has refused to have his dog inoculated. The letter in part reads, "I speak engagements and advanced training in the U. S. Army Reserve."

the provisions of the public health law requiring all dogs six months of age or over to be vaccinated to prevent rabies in effect in Ulster County. The town clerk therefore has no authority to require proof of rabies vaccination before issuing a dog license. If the proper application and the correct dog license fee is presented to the clerk, he must issue a dog license."

Saugerties Town Board met Saturday and discussed the stipulation and on advice of Town Attorney Louis P. Francello directed the town clerk and deputy clerk to strictly adhere to the dog ordinance and refuse to issue a dog license unless proof of rabies inoculation has been filed with the application.

Prior to this order by the Town Board, however, Hommel on the basis of his answer from the Department of Agriculture and Markets requested validation of a dog license without proof of inoculation. Town Clerk Miss Marion Newkirk called the town attorney, who gave her permission to issue the dog license in this instance.

Francello said Tuesday that he now has a copy of the letter from the Department of Agriculture and Markets and is checking the matter in Albany.

Dem Chairman Quits Position

NEW PALTZ — Frederick L. Brough, New Paltz Democratic Town chairman has announced his resignation, effective last Dec. 31.

A full-time teacher as well as an instructor in Continuing Education at Dutchess Community College, Brough said he relinquished his position due to increased commitments to graduate work at SUNY, Albany.

there is no order pursuant to Army Reserve.

County Constables Will Hear FBI

Saugerties Board Sets Election Dates

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES — The village elections will be held Tuesday, March 18 from 12 noon to 9 p.m. at the village clerk's office, Partition Street, and registration for election will be held Saturday, March 1 during the same hours at the clerk's office.

Arrangements for the annual election were announced at Monday night's Village Board meeting held in the trustee rooms.

The two-year terms of Mayor Cornelius M. Cox and Trustees Donald McCaig, Gregory Mulstay and Maurice Clements expire this year.

Mayor Cox reported no conclusions had been reached in discussions with the Town of Woodstock and Saugerties town officials regarding the use of the Cashdollar dump in Woodstock which the Town of Woodstock has under contract for purchase. He said another meeting is planned by the Village Board and the village attorney and a discussion with town officials will be held after the meeting with the attorney.

Mayor Cox also reported a field representative of the Federal Housing Administration will be in the area in a few weeks to meet with local officials in regard to aid for the demolition of abandoned buildings.

Grievance Day for discussion of assessments on the new tax rolls will be held Tuesday, Feb. 18 between 5 and 9 p.m. at the village clerk's office.

Building Commissioner Arthur D. York asked that the Town Board consider remodeling the municipal building to make better use of the available space in the building. The board will study the matter.

Police Commissioner Charles Steele reported Provisional Patrolmen Walter Dreger and Dennis Rowe have resigned and the vacancies will be filled shortly from among the applications on file.

Sentence Trio For Shoplifting

NEW PALTZ — Charged with petit larceny stemming from shoplifting at the local Grand Union store, three students at State University College have been sentenced to fines of $75 each or 10 days in the county jail.

Patrolman Cy Countryman, who made the arrests, said Carol Dorfman, 20, of North Front Street, and Steven Allen Wils, 19, also of North Front Street, were arrested Monday on complaint of the Grand Union management. Countryman said the defendants were accused of stealing tuna fish, a steak and frozen orange juice valued at $4.35 from the store.

Arraigned before Town Justice Rexford Schneider, the two pleaded guilty. In lieu of the payment of the fines, both were committed.

The officer also reported the arrest of Leonard J. Brussee, 22, of Amenia, on Jan. 13, man was booked, authorities Brussee pleaded guilty before Judge Schneider to petit larceny, and was fined $75 or 10 days in jail. He was committed. Subsequently, police charged Brussee with operating a motor vehicle without insurance, switched plates, driving an unregistered motor vehicle and having no inspection sticker. The cases were scheduled for call before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Man to Answer Several Charges

Rodolfo R. Rodriguez, 21, of 783 Broadway, was arrested Monday night by his wife, Carmen, on a charge of harassment following an argument, according to police. After the 22, of Amenia, on Jan. 13, man was booked, authorities Brussee pleaded guilty before Judge Schneider to petit larceny, and was fined $75 or 10 days in jail. He was committed. Subsequently, police charged Brussee with operating a motor vehicle without insurance, switched plates, driving an unregistered motor vehicle and having no inspection sticker. The cases were scheduled for call before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

NAACP Leader To Speak at Peace Meeting

Everette Hodge, president of the Ulster County Branch of the NAACP, will address the meeting sponsored by The Ulster County Peace Committee, at the AME Zion Church, Franklin Street, Kingston, Friday, 8 p. m.

The meeting, an outgrowth of a series of talks held by several area ministers, is designed to encourage Hudson Valley citizens to support an end to the war in Vietnam and a resurgence of activity in the field of Civil Rights.

Hodge has been a leading voice in Negro-white activities in the community. The public may attend. Admission is free.

Named President

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. June Martin of nearby Latham has been named to head a new professional staff unit to help Assembly committees develop legislation.

A career state employee, Mrs. Martin was named to the post by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, Jr.

She will take over the $28,000 job Jan. 30, leaving a post in Gov. Rockefeller's office.

Plug in a Master Heater . . . and you get 50,000 to 500,000 BTU/hr. of circulated heat instantly, depending on model . . . to warm, dry or thaw anything. Master Heaters run on low-cost kerosene or fuel oil . . . come in vented, unvented, and thermostat-equipped models. Come in soon . . . and try one for yourself.

Rolison to Introduce Two New Proposals

ALBANY — Housewives and the ill or handicapped would benefit under two proposals introduced by Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. (R., Dutchess-Ulster) in the state legislature.

Housewives would be freed from paying sales tax on soaps, detergents and other cleaning agents, while some items used by the ill or handicapped would also be tax exempt.

"Assemblymen Emeel Betros (R., Dutchess) and H. Clark Bell (R., Ulster) will cosponsor the legislation in the Assembly."

In introducing the bills Senator Rolison said:

"In view of the proposal to raise the New York State sales tax from 2 per cent to 3 per cent, I believe that certain items should be considered for exemption."

"Therefore, I have introduced two bills which would broaden the exemptions."

"The first would exempt soaps and detergents of any type suitable and commonly used for personal or household purposes, facial tissues, toilet tissues, sanitary napkins, cotton, disinfectants, paper towels, toothpaste and products commonly used for the elimination of insects and rodents in households. These items I believe are necessary for cleanliness and the maintenance of health and should be exempt."

"The second bill would broaden the exemptions now in the law for handicapped persons by adding to the exclusions hearing aid batteries, hypodermic needles and syringes for medical use, crutches, wheelchairs, articles for the use of the blind, contact lenses or eyeglasses."

"It is my opinion that the items in the first bill are as necessary to maintaining a proper household as food, which is already exempt, and the broadening of the exemptions in the second bill will aid the handicapped."

No Conclusion On Sales Tax Discussion

A discussion in depth on the ramifications of a county-wide sales tax Tuesday night failed to reach any conclusions, and County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago said information about the meeting would be withheld until the subject has been reviewed at another session.

The meeting last night included members of the Tax Base Study Committee and the Finance Committee in Chairman Savago's office.

The New Paltz Republican said following another meeting on the subject, the joint committees will prepare and file a report for the Feb. 9 meeting of the County Legislature.

The county-wide sales tax proposal was referred to committee for resubmission at the February meeting. At the December session it was suggested that the Finance and Tax Base Study Committees discuss the subject in order to determine the amount of money the county requires and whether the county tax should be 1, 2 or 3 per cent.

Tries to Warn Priests of Fumes, Woman Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—Mrs. Pauline Clarke, 62, died early Tuesday as she was apparently trying to alert two priests that lethal fumes had filled St. Anthony's Church rectory.

Authorities said they found Mrs. Clarke's body on the floor of an upstairs community room. She fell as she was apparently trying to reach the Revs. Nicholas P. Alletto, 49, pastor of the church, and James S. Russell, 35, assistant pastor in their upstairs quarters.

Mrs. Clarke, a housekeeper, lived on the first floor. Fire officials said they found wet napkins on the stairs which the woman was probably using to cover her face.

Father Alletto was in critical condition at Genesee Hospital. Father Russell was in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital, where hours earlier Mrs. Clarke, a native of Binghamton, was pronounced dead on arrival.

Authorities found Father Alletto's car running in the garage below the living room. Apparently deadly carbon monoxide from the auto seeped into the house.

The victims were discovered after the priests failed to appear at early masses at the adjoining church.

Charge 3 Girls In Church Fire

POUGHKEEPSIE — A million-dollar fire that destroyed St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at South Hamilton and Church Streets Nov. 17, 1968, was set by three little girls — apparently accidentally — police said here Tuesday.

Police Chief John L. Martin Jr., said the children, 7, 10, and 11 were looking for money in the 75-year-old church and lit a candle, which set fire to a priest's vestments. The shell of the church was torn down last month.

Martin said the 11-year-old girl was a habitual runaway and the children may have been involved in other still-unresolved thefts, according to the Associated Press report.

The police official said after the fire started in the sacristy of the church, the girls tried to put it out but were unable to do so. Then, Martin said, they left the church, walked down the block and went to the movies while firemen from all city companies and adjoining communities rushed to the scene.

Firefighters battled the three-alarm blaze for hours but were unable to check the spread of the flames before the entire interior of the church had been wiped out and only the shell of brick walls remained standing.

Plans are underway to rebuild the church.

Firemen Contain UR House Blaze

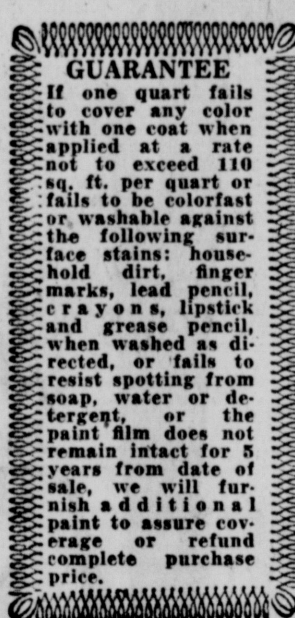

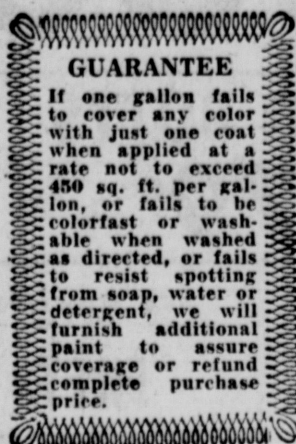

Fire broke out in a bed at 237 Hasbrouck Avenue about 10 a. m. Tuesday in the third-floor apartment of Mack Boler. Firemen contained the blaze to the bed and room, but the floor of the three-story brick building, owned by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, was damaged with smoke and water.

No injuries were reported. Four apartments of the building are occupied.

Clifford's Figures Revealing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford has left his successor, Melvin R. Laird, some revealing new figures showing rapid and sometimes unexpected rises in the cost of weapons.

The increases run as a recurrent theme through Clifford's final report sent to Congress just before the change of the administration. The figures were left in the 165-page unclassified version of Clifford's 300-page secret report, despite pressure within the pentagon to delete them.

For example, in 1967 the cost of the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Chester W. Nimitz, being built at Newport News, Va., was estimated at $427 million. Now the estimate is $536 million.

In February 1966 the carrier Midway began a major overhaul and modernization at San Francisco. The job was to take two years and cost $88 million. Clifford said it actually would take four years and $178 million. The ship was built in 1945 at the cost of $90 million.

Some of the reasons for the cost increases are: Advancing technology, inflation, faulty estimating, technical difficulties and delays and adding more expensive equipment after a program starts.

Hurley GOP Slates Annual St. Pat Fete

HURLEY — Newly elected officers of the Town of Hurley Republican Club took office last week at the first meeting of the new year held at Rolling Acres, Glenford.

Assuming posts were Philip Sinagra, president; Judd DuMond, vice president; Rose Bergher, treasurer; Diane Lacasse, secretary and Emily Sinagra, recording secretary.

Plans were made for the club's annual St. Patrick's dinner dance to be held at the SRS Home, Cottkill, March 15. Further details will be announced in the near future.

Guest speaker was Herbert Greenwald who spoke and showed slides of his trip to Israel.

Probe Break-in, Notify Owner

NEW SALEM — Sheriff's deputies are investigating a break-in at the Salem Street residence of Fred Bayer of Brooklyn, reported to the department Tuesday.

A neighbor called the sheriff's office and reported that the rear door of the Bayer summer residence was open and the owner not at home.

Deputy Robert Sullivan, investigating, discovered entry was gained by breaking the glass panel in the rear door. The deputy reported that drawers in various rooms had been ransacked. The owner has been notified and he will come here to check if anything has been taken, Deputy Sullivan said.

Ancient Wall Found
 ROCHESTER, England (AP)—Archaeological work in the north transept of Rochester Cathedral has disclosed a wall dating from before the Norman conquest of England (1066).
 It formed part of a wall and pillar supporting an arch in a church of the 10th or early 11th century, experts say.
 Little is known of the history of Rochester Cathedral before 1075, although it is established that a small stone Saxon cathedral stood on the site in 604.

Esopus Redemptorist Leaving

PASTOR HONORED — Parishioners of Sacred Heart Church, Esopus, paid tribute to their pastor, the Rev. Joseph A. Wall, CSSR, at The Hedges, West Park, Sunday. On hand for the testimonial were (l-r) the Rev. Francis Meehan, CSSR; the Rev. James Lover, CSSR; Father Wall; Joseph Venuti, who acted as master of ceremonies; and the Rev. John Murphy, CSSR. Father Wall is being transferred to St. Joseph's Church in downtown Rochester after 21 years as pastor of the local parish. The Rev. Eugene Grohe, who was pastor of St. Gregory's Church, North East, Pa., for 12 years, will be the new pastor of the Esopus church. Other Redemptorist appointments have been announced by the order, which maintains a seminary at Mt. St. Alphonsus in Esopus. (Freeman photo by Haines)

The Rev. Joseph Wall, 64, Sunday at The Hedges, Route 9, West Park sponsored by the parishioners of Sacred Heart, Esopus. Replacing Father Wall is the Rev. Eugene Grohe, 44, who comes from the parish of St. Gregory at North East, Pa., where he was pastor for the past 12 years. If history repeats, Esopus should have a winning football team next season. Father Grohe had a knack for working miracles with youth of all sorts.

Two other members of the Redemptorist community at Esopus are also departing: Brother John Bosco goes to St. Clement's College at Ephrata, Pa. and the Rev. John McGuire, 50, who for the past 15 years has worked in the editorial office of Perpetual Help World magazine, with occasional jaunts to Europe on Redemptorist business, will move in the near future—with the magazine office, to St. Alphonsus in Lower Manhattan. The Rev. Edward Gilbert, 32, was in operation he took on himself the spiritual care of Catholic boys residing there. He spent a full day traveling the hills and byways of Ulster County, visiting Catholics wherever he found them in his parish of the Sacred Heart. A farewell party was held who took his degree in Canon Law last June at Catholic University in Washington, D.C. and of the faculty. He will teach law according to word from provincial headquarters at 5 East Redemptorist parish in Brook- Thirty Redemptorists from 74 Street, Manhattan.

Creative Writing Course Set for UCCC

STONE RIDGE—Persons interested in creative writing can learn more about this field by taking a Creative Writing course that Ulster County Community College will offer in the evening in the spring semester, John America, the director of continuing education, said today. America said this course should be of interest to people in the community and is designed for those who have more than average ability in writing. The course will give people interested in this field an opportunity for practice in writing through individual assignments in the essay, short story, poetry and drama. The course, which carries three college credits, will be given on Wednesday nights by UCCC in Room 515 at Kingston High School from 7 to 9:40 p.m. starting Feb. 5. It will run for 15 weeks.

Mail registration is possible before Jan. 24, and anyone desiring an application form or wanting counseling regarding the course should contact America at the college.

It is possible for interested persons to register in person for the course on Tuesday, Jan. 28, and Wednesday, Jan. 29, at the college's Stone Ridge campus. The hours are 6 to 9 o'clock both nights.

Adults interested in taking the course without college credits can do so by auditing

Marines Pick Slate; 'Young' Unit Grows

Ulster Detachment of the Marine Corps League at a recent meeting elected John H. Kerbert of Saugerties as commandant to fill a vacancy, and named Michael R. Stapleton of Ruby, senior vice commandant. They will serve until June, when officers will be elected for a full term.

After assuming his post, Commandant Kerbert received a report from Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer of the Ulster Young Marine Unit, showing continued growth of membership in the boys group, and increasing support by the public. Ulster Detachment sponsors the Young Marines.

Kerbert, who resides at Oak Ledge Park, is employed by the R. J. Welsh and Son Co. of Saugerties. He was honorably discharged from the U.S. Marine Corps in 1953 and has been a member of the Ulster Detachment since. He serves as a drill instructor with the Young Marine Unit, and has been active in other Marine programs.

Stapleton, who resides in Ruby, is a member of the New York State Police assigned presently to the Thruway detail with Troop T. He served in the Marine Corps from 1958 to 1962. Originally a resident of Long Island, Stapleton has been a member of the Ulster Detachment since moving to this area. He operates a registered kennel at Ruby known as the OO-Malik Kennels, where he raises pedigree Alaskan husky sled dogs. He also is a drill instructor with the Young Marine program.

Joseph V. Sullivan of Saugerties, senior vice-commandant, Eastern Division, New York

Kingston Area Bowling Scores

Ostrom Blasts 737

NEW PALTZ—Ray Ostrom, a .78 average bowler, unloaded a spectacular 737 series Monday night to set a new seasonal record in the Monday Nite Scratch League.

Ostrom built up a steady crescendo of strikes as he reeled off games of 235, 247 and 255. It was, of course, a first time "700" and career high for the New Paltz Tractor team bowler.

The big series put Ostrom in fourth spot in the 1968-69 Top Ten scoring parade in the Kingston area.

Women's Match Tourney Slated

Ferraro's Bowlerama has announced plans for a Women's City Match Game bowling championship tournament starting Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

The handicap tournament is open to all city women bowlers regardless of average. A qualifying round will be held Sunday to qualify eight bowlers for the finals on Sunday, Feb. 1.

Eight finalists will roll a round robin under the Petersen Point system.

Magley Blasts 651 Tavern Tops

George Magley powered 651 with highs of 212-243 for 651 high slam in the Independent Tavern league. Runnerup Bill Murphy decked a hat trick 643 on 201, 221 and Dutch Williams hit a 255 and 641.

KHS Rips Lourdes, 78-57

By DENNIS R. CARO
(Freeman Sports Staff)

POUGHKEEPSIE — Little Kenny Gilligan doesn't like zone defenses, when he has to play them that is. When he plays against them its quite a different story.

Tuesday night the fast-breaking guard ripped Our Lady of Lourdes 78-57 to shreds, scoring 28 points and setting an all-time school record of 12 assists as he led Kingston High School to a 78-57 romp that could put the spark back in what has been a very erratic Maroon squad.

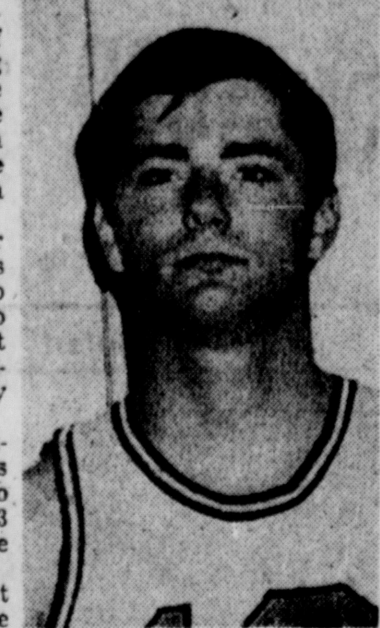

It's been all downhill for Vince Dutkowski's Warriors since their heartbreaking two point loss to Poughkeepsie two weeks ago, and Monday night they hit rock bottom with a 53-50 loss to Cardinal Farley Military Academy.

"Sure they're tired," Dutkowski said, explaining why his squad bore no resemblance to the one that dropped a 54-53 thriller to the Maroons in the season opener.

The physical exhaustion that came from a hard fought game on Cardinal Farley's mammoth court coupled with the disappointment of seeing their season go out the window as far as the Dutchess County Scholastic League is concerned left the Warriors no match for the psyched-up Maroons who put together their finest team effort of the season.

The change was apparent even before the game. It was as though the 64-43 rout at the hands of Newburgh last Friday had acted as a catalyst, and Lourdes never came close after the early part of the first period. Gilligan, slashing through the Warrior zone to feed Werner Kollin for an easy layup or beating Warrior ace Joey White one-on-one after Dutkowski had effected a switch, came up with what was undoubtedly the best performance of his career. Kollin, who showed some very strong moves from in close and some very sharp reflexes as he hit Gilligan and Greg Rios on several fast breaks, and Ted Wood, who showed a sharp eye on a couple of long jumpers as well as an excellent performance under the boards, teamed up very well to take up the slack caused by Gene Bruno's ankle injury.

And Jon Yaple, who started at forward in Bruno's place did a fine job in keeping the quick-paced Kingston attack moving. "It was a great team effort," said Coach Jack Gilligan. "They put it all together and if they can keep it up they'll be tough from here on out."

The Maroons, scoring for the most part in close, shot 54 per cent from the field with Wood's eight for twelve performance and a seven for eleven effort by Kollin leading the way. Gilligan connected on nine of nineteen, breaking a string that has seen him under 30 per cent in the last three games. Kingston came up with 44 rebounds, 15 of them off the offensive boards and was credited with 26 assists.

The Maroon junior varsity, which had won the preliminary in the Kate Walton Field House handily the first time around, was outscored 23-4 in the second period as the baby Warriors romped to a 56-39 win.

Jesse Caprotti had 13 points for Kingston, Don Williams 6, Bruce Gerbag 5, Vito Mapes and Dave Kwasnowski 4. Ed Hopp 3 and Bob Terwilliger and Tom Barton and Dave Scholar played, but failed to score.

In other area games, Monticello, still without the injured Marty Levy, bowed to Port Jervis, 52-43 in a combination City-Village DUSO game, and Middletown, coming on like gangbusters in the second half of the season, smashed Valley Central 102-79.

Paul Hughes tallied 41 points for the Middies, 22 of them in the second quarter when they broke the game open with a 37-18 spree.

Thirteenth Win Was Unlucky for Knicks

NEW YORK — A freak injury that may cost the New York Knickerbockers the services of standout forward-guard Cazzie Russell put the damper their 113-106 victory over the Seattle Supersonics, here last night.

Fractured Ankle — Russell, who had 18 points to lead the Knicks in scoring when the injury occurred, fell while chasing a loose ball near the end of the third period and was taken to St. Clare's Hospital where X-rays revealed a fractured ankle.

Seattle had led for most of the first half, but New York closed fast to take a two point lead at intermission and then put together two six point streaks in the third stanza to take a commanding lead.

The Knicks led 88-82 as the final quarter opened, but a quick Seattle flurry dropped the margin to two, 91-89 before Willis Reed, who finished the game high man with 27 points, and Dave Debussche combined to send the score out of reach.

13th Straight

The Knicks have now won their last 13 straight home games and 17 of their last 19 games overall, with last night's win keeping them five games behind Eastern Division leader, Baltimore and moving them to within one game of the idle, third-place Boston Celtics.

Seattle's Len Wilkens was high man in the game with 31 points and Art Harris added 22 markers for the Supersonics. Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers has reached one milestone in his National Basketball Association career and figures to achieve another by the end of the current season.

The 6-foot, 3-inch former West Virginia star scored 44 points in a 122-105 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Tuesday night increasing his career scoring total to 16,273 points.

Number Seven

That total makes West the No. 7 scorer in NBA history and the third highest-scoring guard in league history. The only guards who rank ahead of him are Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals and retired Boston Celtics star Bob Cousy.

West will pass Cousy if he averages 21 points a game for the remainder of the season.

The other players who have scored more career points than West are all big men — Wilt Chamberlain, Bob Pettit, Dolph Schayes and Elgin Baylor.

Baylor scored 22 points Tuesday night and Mel Counts added 26 for the Lakers while Jon McGlocklin scored 33 for the Bucks.

Bullets Streak

The Baltimore Bullets defeated the Chicago Bulls 116-93, the San Diego Rockets topped the Atlanta Hawks 124-113 and the Cincinnati Royals downed the San Francisco Warriors 113-107 in other games.

Earl Monroe scored 32 points and Kevin Loughery had 25 to lead the Bullets to their fifth straight triumph. The Bullets had a 66-44 half-time lead and never were seriously threatened. Seven-foot Tom Boerwinkle led the Bulls with 19 points.

Elvin Hayes had 27 points and Don Collins 22 as the Rockets snapped the Hawks' five-game winning streak. The Rockets broke open the game in the fourth period when they scored 43 points. Walt Hazzard led the Hawks with 19 points.

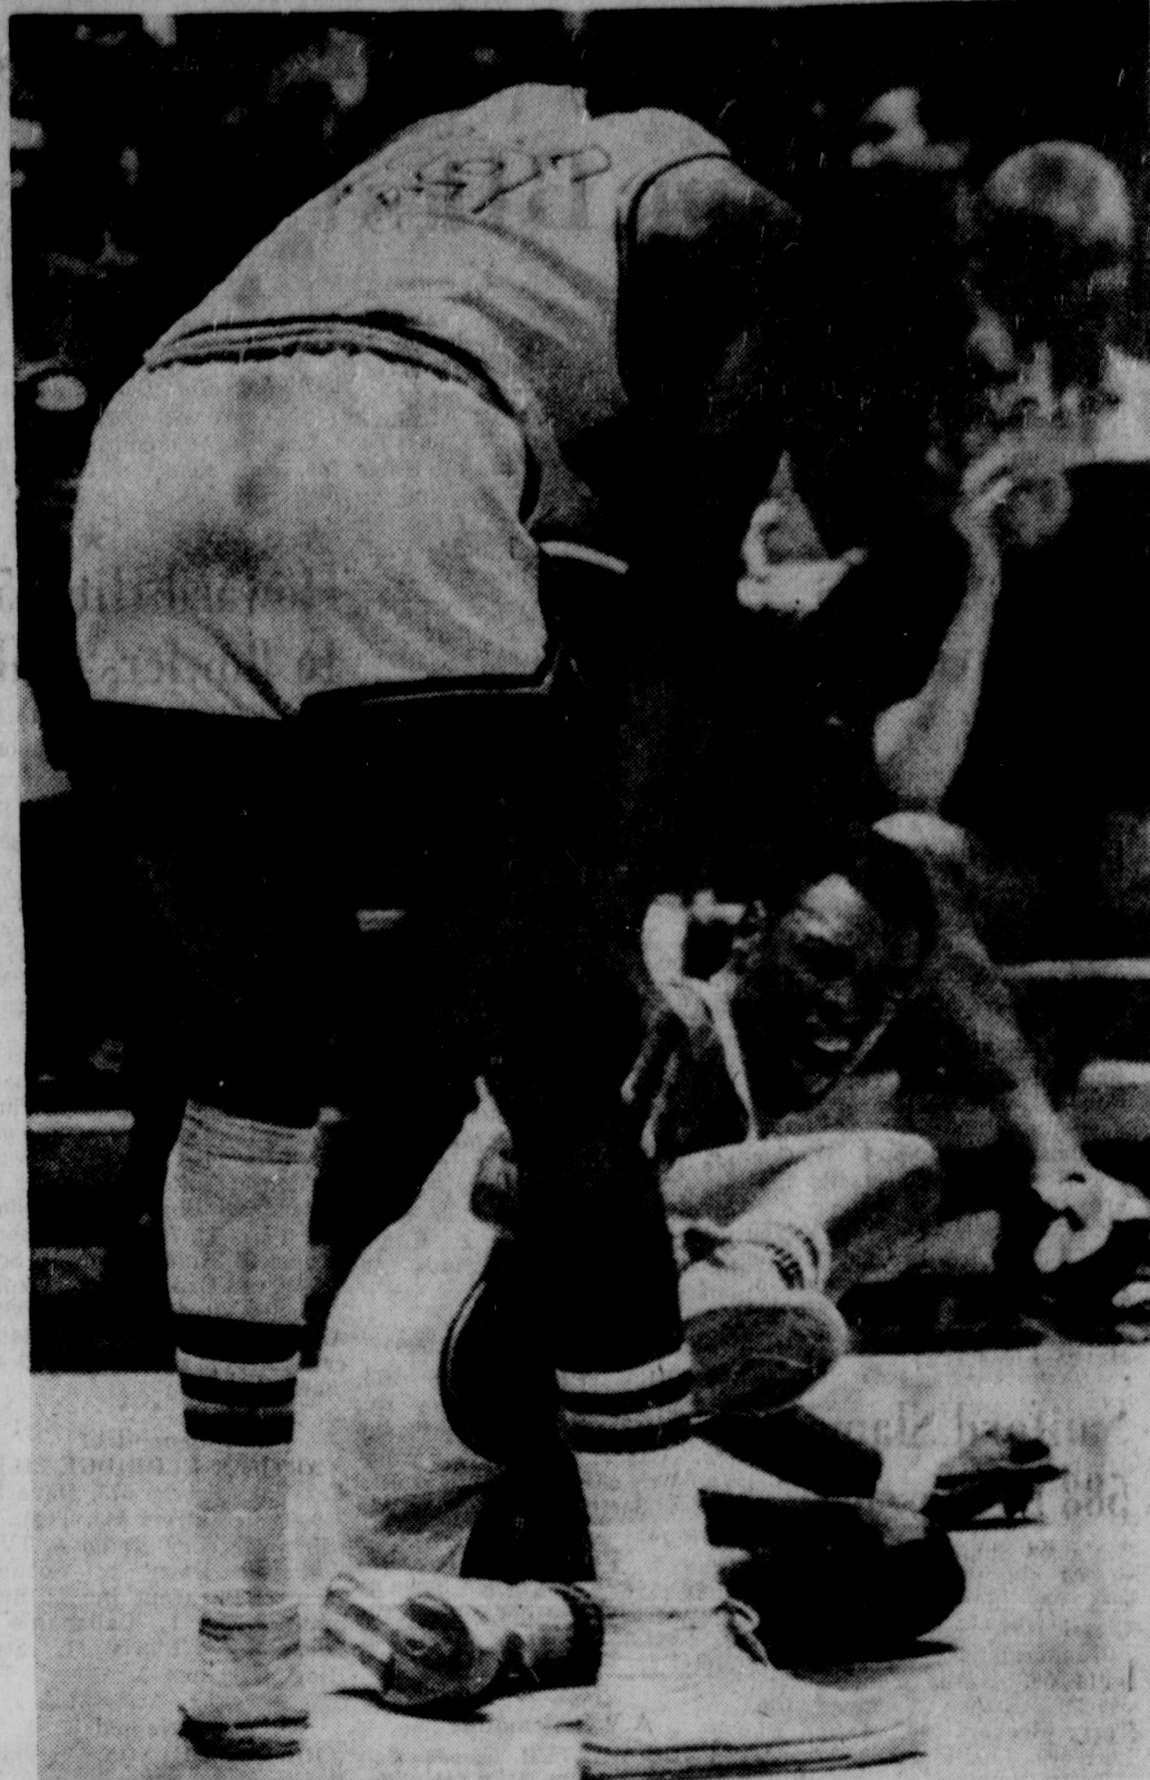

Van Arsdale Stars

Tom Van Arsdale scored six points in overtime, including two free throws that put the Royals into a 107-106 lead, after

Rhinebeck Nips Cardinal Farley

RHINEBECK — If there is a happier man in the Mid-Hudson Valley today, Rhinebeck High School basketball coach Jay Kosseff doesn't want to hear about him.

Cardinal Farley Military Academy had demolished his squad 76-37 at Rhinecliff earlier in the season and Kosseff had blamed the size of the winning margin on the Cadets' rather large playing surface.

"Their court was so big my boys just couldn't play their game," he said, "but when we play them at home it's going to be a different story I can promise you that."

And Tuesday night it was. The Indians led by as much as 12 points in the third period, lost it in the fourth, and then came back to win a 61-60 squeaker.

Trailing by eight at the end of the third quarter, the Cadets stacked three quick baskets together in the opening minutes of the final frame to storm back into the ballgame.

It looked rough for Rhinebeck. Duane Whittaker, who led all scorers with 25 points, and Keith Edwards fouled out as the Cadets slowly forged into the lead.

With three minutes left to play Farley led by four points, but a minute and a half later the score was 61-58 in Rhinebeck's favor as the Cadets consistently failed to convert from the free throw line in the clutch. The Indians failed to score in the final 10 seconds, but valiantly held on with what Kosseff called the "best man-to-man defense I've seen in my tenure here as coach" to shut their arch-rivals off one point short.

It was the second game in as many nights for the Cadets, who Monday had registered a giant upset of their own in downing Our Lady of Lourdes 53-50, and they showed the strain at the foul line. They were able to convert only 18 of 41 attempts from the charity stripe while Rhinebeck was coming on with a 15-30 performance.

Rhinebeck held a tremendous 48-15 edge in rebounds, but continually lost the advantage through turnovers. The win was only the third of the year for Kosseff's squad which tries for another major upset January 31 against Red Hook, currently undefeated in the Hudson River Section of the Dutchess County Scholastic League.

Monroe Surge Stops Blue Devil Streak

CENTRAL VALLEY — The Crusaders of Monroe-Woodbury Central School came up with nine straight points in the final minute of play here Tuesday night, to sweep past streaking Ellenville for a 79-71 non league basketball victory.

The Ellies had won six of their last seven ballgames and were gunning for a home and home sweep when they turned a one point first quarter deficit into a one point lead at the half and held that margin through the third quarter.

The score was 71-70 when Dan DiJoia stepped to the foul line for the Crusaders and tied the game. DiJoia, who led all scorers with 25 points, sank two more foul tries down the stretch as a couple of crucial turnovers foiled the Blue Devils' attempts to score over the last 60 seconds.

The Crusaders scored the last four points of the game from the foul line.

Joe Wyncoop was high man for the Ellies with 21 points. Ellenville is now 6-5 on the season and hosts Rondout Valley in its next contest Tuesday.

Yaple, Rios Contribute Heavily To Kingston Win

When Coach Jack Gilligan inserted Jon Yaple into the starting lineup in place of the injured Gene Bruno against Our Lady of Lourdes last night, he didn't figure to increase the Maroons' strength under the boards. Yet that's just what happened, as Yaple, small even for a guard, picked up 11 rebounds to tie for the team lead with Werner Kollin and Ted Wood.

Greg Rios, playing his best game to date, came up with eight assists to just miss tying the old school record while teammate Ken Gilligan was busy shattering it. Rios also shot 4-6 from the field.

Overall, Kingston was 30-56 from the field, for a dazzling 54 per cent and 18-32 from the foul line for 58 per cent. The Maroons, paced by Gilligan and Rios, were credited with 26 assists, a season high. Kollin notched five and Wood had the other.

The total of 12 turnovers was one of the lowest of the season.

KHS Again Asks Entry in DCSL

Kingston High will again file formal application for admission to the Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) Athletic Director Bill Hurley announced today.

"The required letters went out yesterday," said the Maroon AD, "and we're hoping for a favorable reaction in the DCSL."

Noting that Kingston High had received much encouragement from some DCSL schools in the past, but was always denied admission when voting time came around, Hurley said there was basis for increased optimism this time around.

"There has been some talk of reorganization of the DCSL," he explained, "and if this is true it could mean greater consideration for Kingston's application."

Hurley said he also expected

Newburgh and Middletown to file applications for the DCSL, although their geographical affinity would seem to be more properly with the Orange county league.

Meanwhile, it has been learned that Port Jervis has again filed application for admission to the Orange County league. It has been rejected in the past and is expected to be turned down again.

It is expected that Cardinal Farley Military Academy will drop from the DCSL after this season, but that opening is expected to go to the new John Jay High school in the partitioning of the huge Wappingers Central district. Roy C. Ketcham School is the holdover there.

Kingston applied to the DCSL five years ago, but the Dutchess officials voted to table the application for three years. When it did get around to formal consideration of the Kingston bid a year ago, the DCSL first appointed a study committee on long range expansion. When the vote was finally taken, Kingston again was on the outside looking in.

Hurley pointed out that the old argument about the size of Kingston High is no longer valid.

"That ended when they accepted Poughkeepsie High," he said. "Poughkeepsie won the baseball and football championships in 1968 and is favored to take basketball."

Poughkeepsie returns to the Kingston football schedule next fall replacing Vincentian Institute of Albany. The remaining seven opponents are holdovers — Johnstown, Linton, Port Jervis, Our Lady of Lourdes, Middletown, Newburgh and Gloversville.

The DCSL athletic directors council will meet in February to consider the applications, but the exact date has not been set.

Rondout Wins Over Sawyer Five, 62-57

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties' 10th win in 11 games, in preparation for the UCAL showdown at Onteora Friday night, Rowe of Rondout was the only other player in double figures with 10 points.

Ganders moved to a 15-6 quarter lead and led 28-22 at the half and 41-38 going in.

The Sawyers lost three players via the foul route Jack Fitzpatrick (3rd quarter), John Carnright (4th period) and Praetorius in the closing seconds. Rondout lost John Meehan in the fourth quarter. Rondout used the 2-1-2 zone and press against the Sawyers and "it hurt us again," remarked Coach Buddy Smith. "We did not shoot our best," he added, "and we're still having trouble with our backcourt men, who are fouling out."

The Sawyer Jayvees won their game 37-32 with a last quarter spurt. Rick Koegel and Stan Rosenberger had 8 points each.

Saugerties now 0-8 hosts Cardinal Farley in a DCSL contest Friday.

Lose Swim Meet, 51-44

KHS Bows To Pioneers

POUGHKEEPSIE — Despite seven Kingston High firsts, it all came down to the final event on the schedule — the 400 yard freestyle relay — here Tuesday and Poughkeepsie High's swimmers won it and the match, 51-44, at the YMCA pool.

The Pioneer victory was the eighth straight over Coach Ron Gabriel's Maroons, who have not beaten Poughkeepsie since swimming was instituted as a varsity sport at Kingston High. Last year, Kingston came within one point before bowing, 48-47.

Lakers Register Overtime Win

Lakers won over Knicks 75-70 in overtime after Tom Jensen's basket at the buzzer tied the score 68-68 in regulation play in Old Dutch Intramural League.

Tom Jensen and Jay Snyder combined total of 66 points for the Knicks wasn't enough to offset the more balanced attack led by George Fatum 39, Tom McClean 15, Bob Curran 14, and Charlie Higgins 7 for the Lakers.

Knicks (70) Jensen 39, Snyder 27, Prendergast 2, Kirkpatrick 2, Bouton, McClean, Lakers (75) Fatum 39, Curran 14, McClean 14, Higgins 7, Warren.

Super Bowl Strategy Gives West 3-3 Tie

By BOB BOTT
MONTREAL (UPI) — The Western Division National Hockey League All-Stars combined speedy forwards and steadfast goaltenders with Coach Scotty Bowman's "super bowl strategy" Tuesday night to tie the first East-West All-Star game 3-3.

Despite overwhelming odds and a one-point third period deficit, the West rallied for the deadlock.

A forward line drawn from Bowman's St. Louis Blues clicked twice for the West, and a trio of Minnesota North Stars combined for the third goal.

Western goalies held the East's great forwards to one score until the old division players came to life in a third period surge that resulted in the tie.

Frank Maholich, the Detroit Red Wings' left winger making his 10th All-Star appearance, paced the East with goals in the first and third periods.

Right wing Bob Nevin of the New York Rangers was the only other Easterner to fool netminders Glenn Hall and Jacques Plante of St. Louis. The other Western goalie, Bernie Parent of the Philadelphia Flyers shut the East in the second period.

Bowman, the youthful coach who piloted the Blues to the Western championship last season and has a 17-point margin in division standings this year, employed the same strategy which allowed the American Football League New York Jets to win an upset in the recent Super Bowl Game.

He maintained a very strong defense and relied on a St. Louis line headed by center Red Berenson to take care of the scoring.

Montreal bookmakers, who seldom misjudge a hockey contest, had given the East a 1-2-goal edge in the game but the closest the old division came was the 3-2 margin it enjoyed for less than 10 minutes in the final period.

Hector "Toe" Blake, assistant general manager of the Montreal Canadiens who emerged from retirement to coach the East, said that "the only time I enjoyed the game was when we were winning 3-2, but it is my last game as coach and I remain retired—for this year, anyway."

It was Blake's ninth time behind the bench at an All-Star game, while Bowman was making his debut as an All-star pilot.

Berenson, currently the Western scoring leader, began his second All-star appearance by lifting the puck over the stick of New York Rangers' goalie Ed Giacomin at 4:43 of the opening period. Two St. Louis defensemen, Noe Picard and Doug Harvey, set up the play.

Harvey, a 44-year old veteran playing in his 13th stellar contest, was the oldest player in the lineups Tuesday night.

Berenson's line was on the ice again in the second period when Picard and Berenson set up the play which allowed right winger Jim Roberts to break through Montreal defenseman J. C. Tremblay and Ted Harris for a goal at 1:53.

The score gave the West a 2-1 lead and was the only one of 10 Western shots to get past Boston Bruins' goalie Gerry Cheevers. Giacomin was in goal during the first and last stanzas and gave up two goals on 17 shots.

A Minnesota trio of right wing Claude LaRose, center Danny O'Shea and left wing Danny Grant tied the game two minutes and 53 seconds before the final buzzer. Grant passed to LaRose, who knocked the puck past Giacomin from about five feet out in a play which prompted Blake to remark later, "LaRose had eight shots and it was the eighth one that counted."

Maholich opened the Eastern scoring at 17:32 when he backhanded the puck past Hall on a pass from Montreal's right wing Bobby Rousseau from behind the Western net. The Big "M" sparked the East's third-period comeback when he got a shot behind Plante from beside the Western goal mouth at 3:11. Nevin scored at 7:20 on the rebound of a shot by Toronto Maple Leafs' center Norm Ullman.

Two Hall of Famers: A Contrast in Style

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—For Stan Musial it came as a fitting climax to a 22-year career in which he established himself as one of the premier hitters in baseball.

But for Roy Campanella, the honor served to absolve 11 years of frustration and despair.

Musial and Campanella, a pair of three time winners of Most Valuable Player awards, were accorded baseball's highest honor Tuesday when they were elected to the Hall of Fame. But the pair, two of the most devastating hitters in the National League for almost two decades, took the news of their selection by the Baseball Writers Association of America in contrasting fashion.

Musial, who spent a record 22 years with St. Louis, batting .331 and setting more records than anyone in the history of baseball, accepted the award in a carefree, jovial manner before a gathering of about 100 persons in St. Louis' Busch Stadium.

"I'm very honored, pleased and happy to be selected," said Musial, who received 317 of the record 340 votes cast and thus became only the fourth player ever selected in his first year of eligibility. "This is one of the highest honors in baseball. I'm certainly very thrilled and very pleased."

Campanella, paralyzed from the waist down as a result of the tragic auto accident that ended his career in January, 1958 at age 36, discussed the award in a more serious note after being named to the Hall following three frustrating near misses.

"I'm more than proud to receive this honor," said Campanella, who arrived in "jame duck" Commissioner William D. Eckert's office in the wheelchair which has served as his legs for the last 11 years.

"I never had any idea I'd even play in the majors, much less make the Hall of Fame," said Campanella, who joins former Brooklyn teammate Jackie Robinson as the only Negroes in the Cooperstown, N.Y. shrine. "It shows we're living in the right country," added Campanella, his round face flashing the wide smile which became his trademark.

Lou Boudreau, the former Cleveland manager and shortstop, was third in the balloting as he gained 218 votes and came within 37 votes of being elected to the Hall. Ralph Kiner was fourth with 137 votes and Enos Slaughter rounded out the top five with 128.

Premiere, Aero Lake Y Winners

Premiere Lounge overbilled Boyle's A.C., 118-67, and Aero Lake Airport defeated Daton Jewellers, 71-67, as the Y.M.C.A. Basketball League staged its delayed openers last night.

With five players hitting in double figures, the Lounge men bolted to a 55-30 halftime lead over Boyle's. Ed Burns led the winners with 34 points. Jake Senor hit 25, Bill DuBois 27, Harry Pratt 17 and Mike Burns 11.

Price topped Boyle's with 16 and Ted Feeney and Houghtaling rimmed 14 each for Boyle's.

Jim Massa's 25 points and 20 rebounds by George Beck sparked the Airport five which broke the game open with a 21-10 margin in the third period, after leading 36-34 in a close first half.

Don Meeks and Joe Adams canned 24 points each for Daton Jewellers.

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (UPI)—Leonard Ballon, 40, the Bronx, was sentenced to 10 years after pleading guilty Monday in Sullivan County court to second degree manslaughter in the slaying of his wife.

The plea came as his trial for first degree manslaughter was getting under way.

Ballon was arrested last Labor Day weekend for the slaying of his wife, Anne, 37, in a rented bungalow near Monticello. Police said at the time the slaying followed a family argument.

State Presents Its Program
In Clay Conspiracy Trial

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The state has presented prospective jurors in the Clay L. Shaw trial with a six-point action program that it intends to use in its attempt to convict the retired New Orleans businessman and civic leader of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, the diminutive, 35-year-old chief trial tactician for Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, explained to the prospects that the state needs only to show that any one of the three alleged conspirators committed any one of the six alleged overt acts in furtherance of a conspiracy to kill the president.

Defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond countered by asking many of the questioned veniremen—in the presence of others waiting their turn in the courtroom—whether they had it firm in their minds that before getting to the overt acts the state must prove "a basic conspiratorial agreement."

Garrison, the 6-foot-6 prosecutor who has hurled charges against the motives of the Warren Commission and Johnson administration officials in the Kennedy death assessment, spent a few minutes in court on the first day Monday.

Shaw never turned his head to look at the man who indicted him in March 1967, on charges of conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and David William Ferrie to murder Kennedy. Shaw could go to prison at hard labor for not less than one year and not more than 20 on a guilty vote by as few as nine of the 12 jurors. A unanimous vote is not needed in Louisiana in conspiracy cases.

The trial entered its second day today with two members of that jury chosen. Completion of the panel of 12 jurors and two alternates was expected in about 10 days.

The two selected were Irvin Mason, a Negro machine operator with two children, and Oliver Marion Schultz, 39, a truck driver for a public service company.

President Kennedy was killed in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. The Shaw indictment alleges the three conspired between Sept. 1 and Oct. 10 that year. Alcock told jurors that the state did not have to show that Kennedy was murdered. It must prove "a meeting of the minds" of the three in a conspiracy to slay him, he said, and then prove one of the alleged overt acts.

The state's list of alleged overt acts, as unfolded in court by Alcock:

1. A meeting of Oswald, Ferrie and Shaw in the Ferrie apartment in September, 1963.

2. Discussion of the means and method of murdering Kennedy, particularly selection of the use of high-powered rifles being fired from multiple directions simultaneously to produce a triangulation of crossfire, selecting escape routes and determining places to be used for some of the principals for alibis on the murder date.

3. Shaw's traveling from New Orleans to Baton Rouge in the

CELEBRATING OUR 5th ANNIVERSARY

We are Celebrating 5 Years of Real Estate Service to the People of Ulster County.

M.L.S. started in January 1964 and in the FIRST THREE YEARS Sold Property Valued at $6,644,045

in 1967 We Sold Property Valued at $3,778,705

The year just past (1968) Exceeded our fondest expectations as M.L.S. sold property Valued at

$4,718,620

Almost a Million Dollars Increase in the Last Year.

Making the grand total value of property sold by us in the last 5 years of

Over 15 Million Dollars

Surely this is ample proof that more and more people in Ulster County are finding out that it pays to use the Multiple Listing Service

WHY? Because:

1. Service to the Public

Dear Abby

Looking for a Bride

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Time has passed so fast. I am an old bachelor (now 70) but I'm in good health, have a nice home, auto mobile, and my hobby is raising roses.

Sometimes I get a little lonesome for female companionship (not sex, I'm all thru with that) and I'm wondering if maybe I shouldn't marry one of those old widows who has been after me.

I know I'm not perfect, but there always seems to be something wrong with the women I meet. Either they are looking for a meal ticket or they talk too much.

What do you think?

CONSIDERING DEAR CONSIDERING: Why not? But be sure you get a quiet woman who's not looking for a meal ticket, wants only male "thru with sex," or you'll have a bigger problem than loneliness.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently had a lovely dinner party in our home. One of the couples asked us in advance if they could leave a little early because they'd left their child at home ill. Naturally we said yes.

Well, almost immediately after the dinner this couple put on their coats and made the rounds of all the guests saying goodnight. Needless to say, they broke up the party as others started leaving right after they did.

My husband said he didn't see anything wrong with their saying goodnight to everyone that if they just sneaked off it would have shown worse manners. I think he is wrong and told him so. What do you think?

DEAR ELSIE: I think guests who depart "early" should do so as inconspicuously as possible. (I also think your husband was probably glad to call it a night and get to bed himself.)

DEAR ABBY: I think your definition of "KARMA" needs to be clarified. It is not merely the calm acceptance of one's "destiny." It is the belief that whatever good or evil a person does during his present lifetime will be returned measure for measure in some future life. To make it more simple, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." Sincerely,

A BELIEVER

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN IN CLIFVELAND": Your husband could be going thru the male counterpart of "change of life." A man who has worked hard for 27 years, and has been a good husband and father, is not likely to go off the deep end permanently.

Almost every man after 50 becomes a little worried about growing old, and losing his appeal. His ego needs a boost, and there is always that predatory female around, ready to flatter him and make him feel "young" again. He falls like a ton of leadwood; then the big thrill wears off and he comes trotting home to mama, feeling a little ashamed, but with a nice warm glow inside, knowing there is life in the old boy yet.

The smart wife doesn't put on an academy award scene. She swallows her pride, accepts

Everybody has a problem.

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY JANUARY 23, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Mate or partner may appear extravagant. Take hold of reins. Direct affairs without being arrogant. Take charge! Your cycle is high. Your judgment apt to be correct. Be independent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get boost which helps break roadblock. There remain certain limitations. But outlook brightens. You continue with concern over family harmony. Yet, recent adjustment is promising.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your business income needs attention. Study ARIES message. Don't be fooled by one who appears to know all answers. Key is your own perception. See persons, situations as they actually exist.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be sensitive to needs, suggestions of parent or one in authority. Necessary that you prove good intentions. Otherwise, room at top becomes narrow — you are squeezed. Understand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with favorable news from a distance. You receive communication, call — your desires get a lift. Some of your own writings, views get excellent reception.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Where tax, estate affairs are concerned — be conservative. You have some definite ideas. But today it is wise to let associates express views in complete manner. Wait. Absorb. Gain strength.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Review alliances. Be sure you are with the people who represent your viewpoint. Follow through. Rely upon past experience. Don't buy "pig in poke." Be confident — loyal to principles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People who depend upon you make known their needs. Element of confusion is obvious. Be versatile. You no longer are afraid. Unknown becomes bright with light. Step forward with confidence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Cultivate hobby, creative activities. You can break through restrictions. Now is time to seek change — plan to travel and welcome variety. You have luck when it comes to speculating.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Practical affairs dominate. Surprise in financial area highlights day. Promotion or business opportunity is indicated. Study available information. Be familiar with regulations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be gracious host. Welcome visitors. Realize neighbor or relative wants to confide problem. If sympathetic — you gain. Stress family harmony. Cement relationships.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Priority should be given income potential. Be perceptive. Read between the lines — study fine print. Element of deception exists. Find out the why of events. Then act accordingly.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you possess intellectual curiosity. You are attractive to opposite sex. Your charm radiates — but not everyone understands your goals, motives. Some restrictions are in effect — but, with persistence, you overcome them.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for ARIES, TAURUS, GEMINI. Special word to SCORPIO: one who doubted you now is confident of your ability.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

A MESS: (Q.) My sister and I share a room and she won't pick up her make-up, dirty dishes, clothes, or anything! I've told Mom and Dad. This does no good. If they say anything, my sister just gets mad and still doesn't pick up anything. I can't stand it any more. What can I do?—T. in Omaha, Neb.

(A.) Some sister teams and brother teams get along great sharing rooms. Some don't. When they don't it can be tough. Your best solution is to arrange for a room of your own. I realize, of course, that this may be out of the question.

If it is, you have two choices:

(1) Clean up behind your sister. I believe you'd be happier that way than the way things are now. Or:

(2) Give her a little of her own medicine. Drop or abandon things of your own, and be sure they land on her side of the bed, or her chair, or her study desk. Maybe this will shake her up and wake her up.

CONTESTANT: (Q.) Just exactly what are "church clothes"? I'm our school's basketball queen and must compete with 31 other girls from other schools. The first judging is in church clothes.

I have a short-sleeved, blue velvet dress. Would this be a "church dress"? Should I have dressy accessories?—A reader in Texas.

(A.) Church wear is more subdued than party or after-five attire. But, just by changing accessories, you can often make the same dress do both jobs.

You can tone down your blue velvet to make it a "church dress." With it wear black patent shoes and pearl earrings, and carry a small, textured black handbag. Gloves are optional. If you want them, carry rather than wear them. You'll look more casual and less formal this way.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Instant Sports on ABC-TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—ABC-TV, which has been trying various devices to increase the audience of its half-hour evening news, now is turning to sports reporting as an added attraction.

With its two larger network competitors, CBS-TV and NBC-TV, generally dominating the evening news audience, ABC-TV in the recent past has attempted more and more to go its own way, to carve out its own special niche.

First it announced that it would be gearing its attention to contemporary matters in the social sense, in addition, of course, to covering the news that had to be covered. The implication was that ABC-TV, whose specialty is the young audience, would be oriented more to pop events and people that deserved news attention and were of particular interest to youthful viewers.

Then ABC-TV introduced a whole slate of columnists-of-the-air who, ever since, have been popping off refreshingly on their views of the world. These editorialists have appeared often, whenever the occasion seemed right.

Big Venture Now

Now comes the big venture into sports reporting on a network's evening news program—an issue that is not at all quite as ordinary as some might suspect.

It is true that these evening news reports give mention to major sports event when it occurs—such as a World Series game. But with the half-hour being such a relatively limited time in which to cover the world's news, previous attempts—or suggestions—concerning the inclusion of sports coverage have not always met with favor among key persons.

The sports department at ABC-TV, however, has more weight than at any other local network. It has been a tremendous success, and an innovator of many aspects of network sports reporting. In terms of prestige, it is the single area in which ABC-TV can fairly claim frequent superiority to its larger competitors.

Thus, while most televisioners will continue to get the majority of their video sports news on local roundups, ABC-TV late this month will begin five-minute "instant sports specials" on the network's evening news broadcasts. These five-minute inserts will be shown, says ABC-TV, when breaking sports news "warrants in-depth coverage."

Opening lead—♥ 7

It is mighty hard to get an absolute top score in a continent-wide game but we think that East-West's plus 500 on hand seven will come close to doing the job.

East and West were playing the Landy convention in which the two club overall of an opening no-trump shows both majors. We don't approve of East's two-club call. He only held four spades and he was woefully lacking in high cards.

Connecticut bridge teacher Sally Johnson, who sat West, was not happy being asked to bid a major but she responded with two spades without histrionics to imply that she didn't really have a spade suit.

As a matter of fact, two spades would not be a very bad contract and she might even have made it but South got into the bidding with a three-diamond call.

This was Sally's cup of tea and she doubled. East looked over his collection of nothing and finally decided to pass and hope that Sally could set three diamonds all by herself. After all, he saw no future in taking out the double.

PARIS WELCOME — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge (L) new chief of the American delegation to the peace talks, shakes hands with Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, head of the South Vietnamese delegation after meeting in Paris Tuesday. Allied and Communist negotiators will begin political talks on the settlement of the Vietnam war on Saturday. Earlier, Lodge announced the first meeting of the talks will immediately tackle "substantive," or war and peace, issues. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

South Viet Premier Has Doubts on Talks

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Tran Van Huong of South Vietnam today said he has little confidence in the success of war negotiations opening here Saturday.

Talking to newsmen in Saigon, Huong said, according to his spokesman and translator, "I do not put much confidence in the success of the Paris conference because the Communists are stubborn and will always try to drag the conference out at length."

A newsmen asked Huong if he thought the talks would succeed. "No, not at all," Huong was heard to say, according to UPI correspondent Daniel Southern in Saigon.

Later, Huong's spokesman, Buu Nghi, told newsmen what Huong meant to indicate was that the talks would not reach a quick solution.

In Paris, American diplomats led by Henry Cabot Lodge expressed hope the talks will plunge quickly into the major issues of war and peace without lengthy debate over such procedural matters as the conference agenda.

The Americans announced Tuesday the full negotiations would open Saturday, following 10 months' intensive U.S. efforts here.

U.S. officials said they and the South Vietnamese have agreed to try to avoid any fight with the communists over the agenda. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong last week said they would demand that the agenda be fixed to make the first topic of discussion the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam.

Lodge and Lam scheduled daily meetings until Saturday to discuss Allied strategy for the opening of the negotiations.

When the Communists and the Allies reached accord on procedures for the conference in one bargaining session last Saturday, the Communists suggested the actual talks get under way on Tuesday.

However, the U.S. delegation, just undergoing a change in leadership, delayed the opening so Lodge and his aides could be briefed by the outgoing team of negotiators.

10 Swept to Death in Storm

By United Press International

California Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency in the Golden State Tuesday in the wake of winter's first major storm, which forced hundreds of persons to flee their homes on a score of rivers and streams.

Meanwhile, the heavy rains that drenched California the last few days tapered off somewhat, while a cold front moving inland brought rain to Arizona and New Mexico, and snow to Nevada and Utah.

Snow continued to pile up in the Northern Rockies, while snow fell in the Northern Plains and became mixed with sleet and freezing rain in the Midwest.

10 Persons Lost

Near Santa Paula, Calif., 10 persons fleeing a torrential storm in the Los Padres National Forest were swept from an amphibious tractor stalled in the Sespe Creek. They were "presumed lost," authorities said. A spokesman for the Ventura County sheriff's office said the 10 victims were swept down the creek during a cloudburst late Monday night.

Authorities learned of the tragedy from a survivor picked up by a helicopter near the scene late Tuesday. Those presumed dead included six youths from Canoga Park, Calif., and a man who took them for an outing in the forest on Friday, just before a major creek.

rainstorm struck the area. Three other victims were members of a search party which entered the area about 35 miles north of Santa Paula to look for them.

The survivor told rescuers he saw the other members of the party swept "one by one from the tractor into the raging waters of the storm-filled

Fish Task Force In Rhinebeck

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. today continued to develop his idea of district-wide task forces with the announcement of the formation of a "Business Task Force."

According to Congressman Fish, the first meeting of this new advisory group will be held at the Beekman Arms, Jan. 24. It will be a "dutch treat" luncheon meeting.

The business task force is one of several representing various groups within the district being formed by the congressman. Labor, agriculture, and senior citizen task force groups have already met. A task force on human relations is presently being formed and will meet in the near future.

The business task force will be made up of both a broad cross-section and a wide geographic distribution of business interest.
